THE STATE CAPITAL.

How Weary the Legislators are Becoming.

Frank James and the Governor—A Joke on Speaker Bashaw.

Special From Our Staff Correspondent.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 25.—You have already learned that the circus to-day and the Brownsville excursion to-morrow take the place of legislation. The House was in session not quite an hour to-day, and to-morrow they will meet only to adjourn. Nobody seems to put any confidence in the motion brought in to-day providing for adjournment sine die on May 4th. The members generally agree that there is no hope for adjournment before the 15th and possibly the 20th of May. In the meantime we are boring ourselves to death. The caucus committee is working on the apportionment and I am given to understand has only definitely settled upon one district in the extreme northwestern corner. So tired are we that we do not even talk about the districts anymore. "Have you heard what they are going to do with Chariton county?" I heard one member ask another this morning. "D——n Chariton county," was the reply, and, profane and inelegant as the expression is, it phrases popular feeling here exactly. The members are coming to that frame of mind wherein they are prepared to d——n any county upon no provocation whatever. The circus made a hole in the day and was attended by the three branches of the government, the executive, the legislative and the judiciary. The clown got off one joke which I am prepared to swear was over fourteen hundred years old, as I recognized it as one of the Gesta Romanorum. However, I suppose, as long as a clown keeps this side of the Christian æra it is all which can be reasonably expected of him.

EVERYBODY IN TOWN

is laughing at Speaker Bashaw, who, I think I gave you to understand, is a very handsome man. It appears that Mr. Henry Newman, of Randolph, was given to understand some very dreadful things about Bashaw and constituted himself a committee of one to go and investigate. He called at Bashaw's rooms and asked him if it were true that he wore night shirts.

"Yes."

"Will you show me one?"

The garment was produced, examined and sniffed at, and relegated to its position in the trunk. "And what is this thing?" demanded the committee.

"That is a tooth-brush."

"Well, I'll tell you what it is, Tom Bashaw, if anybody had told me that you used those things, I wouldn't have believed it. To think that you would take up with such bloody innovations is too much, and I'm free to state right here that I do not believe any man who brushes his teeth and sleeps in a gown is sound in his Democracy, and I don't care who knows it."

Timberlake was expected in town to-day, but if he came he kept himself very close. It has leaked out through his wife that Frank James is located, and that the country will be presented with another sensation in a few days. Timberlake knows that Frank James was in St. Joe while Jesse was lying there dead. He was in his mother's house while his brother was being buried and he has been in the neighborhood of Kansas City ever since the assassination. He certainly was in St. Joe on the day the Ford boys were released from prison, and he has been in Atchison, Leavenworth and Sedalia since. In fact he seems to have become utterly reckless of consequences and shows himself with a disregard of results which bespeaks desperation. He told a friend in Sedalia last week that after all Missouri was the safest place he could find, and he meant to take the chances and stay here until he had done his work.

THE GOVERNOR

claims to know nothing at all about Frank James' whereabouts, but he makes his statement in a very ambiguous way—a way calculated to make one believe that he knows just where he is. It is not believed by the Jackson and Clay county people to whom I have talked that Frank James can be taken by any organized treachery such as his brother succumbed to. He trusts nobody, and Jim Cummings is the only one of the old band left. Jim is not a traitor as Bob Ford was, and could hardly be hired to kill Frank as the other contracted to kill Jesse.

The Governor also declines to say anything about the Harris warrant further than to deny that any pressure was brought to bear on the Attorney-General.

The Brownsville trip promises to degenerate into a high old time merely. The Salem county people are not highly charmed with the Governor's prompt disapproval of the proposed scheme to get the Brownsville schoolhouse, blown down by the tornado, rebuilt by the State.

Splashes from Eureka.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

EUREKA SPRINGS, ARK., April 24, 1882.—A teamster named White, while engaged in loading wood a short distance from the city, was bitten in the hand by a small snake. He paid no attention to it at the time, hauling several loads before feeling any inconvenience from the bite or resorting to the use of an antidote until he had been taken by a spasm. He died twelve hours after. The snake was of the viper species and only eight inches in length.

Mrs. Hinton, of Roanoke, Ark., came here December 26, afflicted with cancer in the mouth. The cancer first made its appearance in 1865, becoming continually enlarged until it forced out all of her front teeth, and protruded so far that she was unable to close her mouth. She could not partake of food, except by forcing it into the corners of her mouth with her fingers. Within the last ten days the cancer has become very painful and has divided itself into sections, three of which have recently dropped out, allowing her mouth to close. The lady feels very much encouraged and is satisfied the remainder will drop out in due time.

The arrivals last week aggregated 269. The following are from St. Louis: T. H. Earhart, C. Russell, Max Folk, D. H. Silver, G. J. Broenice, Mrs. Wm. Cordell, L. C. Hill, J. M. Henry, Chas. H. Spirited Defense of His Foreign Policy by the Ex-Secretary—Lively Tilt With Belmont—Spicy Reading—Congressional—Washington News.

Blaine's Examination.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The Foreign Affairs Committee resumed the examination of Blaine this morning, who said he had examined the diary of the late President, who had been in the habit for years of keeping a minute account of his daily transactions, and found that neither Shipherd nor Huribut nor the Cochet claims of the Peruvian Company are mentioned. Neither does his private secretary remember ever to have heard him mention them. None of these South American dispatches were prepared during the President's sickness. Blaine mentioned the fact of certain dispatches which were blocked out before the President was shot, but which remained in statu quo until after the succession of President Arthur. In explanation of President Garfield's views upon the subject, Blaine said: "President Garfield, in conversation with me, said Mr. Lincoln directed Secretary Seward to bring all foreign matters to him and not to the Cabinet, unless he so desired." Continued Blaine: "From that time forward I never submitted anything to the Cabinet which involved a permanent policy or change of policy, and no step which would involve a change of policy on the part of this Government was ever taken by me without first submitting it to the President and receiving his entire approval and direction."

Blaine alluded to the efforts which had been made to fix upon him (Blaine) the responsibility for a certain policy towards the South American States which was calculated to involve this country seriously and continued:

"I don't desire to assume THAT PRESIDENT ARTHUR IS RESPONSIBLE for any such effort. I acquit him entirely, but I desire at this time to place this matter before the committee fairly."

Blaine then produced the original draft of the instructions which were given Trescott, which he read and pointed out the corrections which had been made by the President, some of them at his (Blaine's) suggestion, and commented upon the corrections and their wants and demerits. He added, "I do not, by any means, find fault with the President for changing his mind, but this is the original draft of instructions to which President Arthur gave his consent, and which following precedent, I kept. I desire to state most solemnly that the assumption that I ever interpolated a line or syllable in a dispatch after it was agreed to by the President is as false as the lie that was circulated over the country that I was, during the President's sickness, blocking out a foreign policy of my own."

At this point Mr. Belmont proceeded to propound a series of prepared questions mainly directed to an inquiry into the policy of the department in the Chili-Peruvian troubles and the instructions given Trescott.

Witness, in reply to the questions, stated he had never made an examination of the merits of the Cochet nor Landrean claims. He had considered the Landrean claim as res adjudicata.

Mr. Belmont then propounded a series of questions in regard to the terms "good offices" and "officially," and a somewhat lively tilt ensued between the examiner and witness, which was suddenly brought to a climax by Blaine remarking with some emphasis: "I hope, Mr. Belmont, you will be a gentleman. I shall be one, and shall treat you as such. I am not in a Police Court to be badgered. I must answer my questions in my own way, and you must not undertake to correct me."

Belmont disclaimed any lack of courtesy or desire to badger. He entertained the highest respect for the witness, both on account of his age and the high position he had occupied.

The examination for some time pursued the direction of repartee and retort, the examiner persisting in putting his own constructions upon the tenor of Blaine's dispatches, while the latter as persistently insisted upon their meaning as written. Blaine addressing the chairman, said: "I must confess this seems to me a

VERY EXTRAORDINARY EXAMINATION."

The witness then explained at some length just what instructions were given to Huribut in relation to the Landrean claim; that he should simply use his good offices to secure a hearing for Landrean in the courts of Peru. "It was venturesome enough," added Blaine, "to ask a foreign government to give an American a hearing in its courts. The case was not fairly arbitrated, and the property has gone the way of the world. England has gobbled up the guano, and a million tons of it are now advertised in London, worth probably sixty million dollars." Blaine continued with much earnestness: "The English bondholders put up a job of war on Peru, and it was for loot and booty. They make a mistake who speak of this war as a Chilian war.

It was an English war on Peru, and I take the responsibility to so put it, and I dared to ask that a hearing be given to an humble citizen of a government that hardly dares be out of sight over night, and my foreign policy, to quote the expression, 'would have driven this country into war with Chili had it not been thwarted!'

"Why is it believed all over Chili that the United States got out just in time to save a sound thrashing; that her hair-brained Secretary of State was just about to involve her in war when she was saved by his removal, and in their papers? A little gathering of 1,000,000 people on the west coast of South America would have given us a terrible trashing. If so, we let the dismemberment of Peru go on and allow England to bag the spoils—rising and adding with much emphasis: History will hold the United States responsible for it." The examination proceeded for some time and lapsed into a continuous rattle of repartee and counteract retort which frequently convulsed the spectators with laughter and left it a matter of some doubt which was the examiner and which the witness.

Blaine asserted neither the Landrean claim nor Cochet claim had anything more to do with the policy of this Government toward the South American Republic than did the barnacle on the bottom of the ship which bore Huribut to Lima.

Belmont had not concluded the examination of witnesses when the committee adjourned till to-morrow.

Sergeant Mason's Case.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Argument in Sergeant Mason's case was concluded in the Supreme Court to-day.

ARGUMENTS.

In the Sergeant Mason case before the U. S. Supreme Court to-day Solicitor-General Phillips made an argument of about half an hour for the respondents. He took much the same ground as did Gardiner yesterday, holding that the court martial had full jurisdiction to try Mason under the 62d article of war; that his punishment was not excessive if army discipline is to be maintained.

Mr. Liddy closed the argument for the defense. He maintained that the Supreme Court had original jurisdiction to review the case, but if this was denied it certainly had appellate jurisdiction. He had applied to the District Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus, and, it having been denied, the case came before the Supreme Court just as if the writ had been denied by the United States Circuit Court. The court then took the case under advisement and will on next Friday adjourn until the 8th of May, when it will assemble to deliver opinions before adjourning for the term.

Worthington's Confirmation.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The Senate Committee on Commerce will to-morrow take up the nomination of Worthington to be Collector of Customs at Boston, and they expect to act upon it. Senators Hoar and Dawes will appear before the committee to make arguments against Worthington's confirmation. The burden of their argument will be that Worthington would convert the Custom-house and its patronage into a political machine, and the people of Massachusetts are opposed to that. Representatives Bowman, Harris and Norcross, of Massachusetts, and ex-Senator Boutwell will make arguments in favor of Worthington. Messrs. Hoar and Dawes mean to carry their fight into the Senate, but unless they get considerable Democratic aid they will be defeated and Worthington confirmed. Present indications are that most of the Democrats will vote for confirmation.

Star Route Case.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Reerdell's case came up in the Police Court again to-day. Ex-Postmaster-General James and ex-Attorney-General MacVeagh were present as witnesses. The defense insisted upon reading the entire warrant before the examination of witnesses began.

An Arkansas Fire.

LITTLE ROCK, April 26.—A Gazette special from Searcy, Ark., says at half past three this morning a fire broke out in John A. Love's grocery and was soon beyond control. The whole block was destroyed. Loss: Hissy & Watkins, general merchants, $1,200, insurance $6,000; I. J. Gentry & Son, grocers, $4,000, insurance $2,400; Garnell Bros. warehouse, $3,000, insurance $2,000; J. R. Ripley, shoe shop, $500, insurance $150; John A. Love, grocery, $2,000, insurance $800; Reed's picture gallery, $1,500, no insurance; Patterson's brick building, $1,000. The burned block was owned by Trabue & Co., Louisville. Loss, $3,000; insured.

The Governor's Message.

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., April 26.—The Legislature met in short session this morning. The Governor's message was read, and in accordance with it a bill was introduced to reapportion the Legislative districts of the State so that St. Louis, Pike, Macon, Marion and Lafayette counties will have one representative each, and Pettis, Jasper and Nodaway gain one. The Senate was not in session. All the members of both houses have gone on the Brownsville excursion.

BLOOMINGTON, ILL., April 26.—A letter received by Hon. Lawrence Weldon from Senator Logan this morning says that he expects to leave Hot Springs in company with Gen. John McNulta, a partner of Weldon in the law practice, about the 6th of next month, and after remaining in Chicago a few days will proceed alone to Washington.

A NICE POINT.

Which the Democrats of Indiana Will Take Advantage Of.

TERRE HAUTE, IND., April 26.—The Evening Gazette prints an editorial article to-day disclosing the fact that by the alteration of the constitutional amendment changing the date of the State election from October to November fifty members of the State Senate, the whole number, are to be elected this fall, instead of twenty-five as heretofore. The term of office of twenty-five of them, however, will not begin to run until the expiration of the terms of their predecessors, which occurs a few days before the November election in 1884. This is deemed important, as a United States Senator to succeed Voorhees is to be elected in the winter of 1884—5, and this unexpected catch in the law precipitates that contest in part this fall. The Democrats claim it as an advantage for them.

Odd Fellow Celebration.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ART SALE.

A Splendid Collection of Water Colors to be Disposed Of.

Fanning's collection of water colors, now on exhibition at No. 314 North Fifth street, is one of the most meritorious collections ever brought to the west and is attracting general attention, not only from art critics and connoisseurs, but from all classes of people. There is scarcely a poor picture in the lot, while the really handsome specimens are numerous. The artists represented are the most celebrated among all the French, Dutch, Danish, Spanish, English and Italian schools, and altogether form a very rare collection. A special feature of the exhibit is the Moorish pictures, which are the first displayed here for public inspection. Among the numerous worthy specimens may be mentioned the following:

"A Moorish Flower Girl," by Ruiz; "Moorish Minstrel," by Gil; "Circassian Girl Burning Incense," by Oldlamina; "The Pasha's Favorite," by Rivas, the last named a really grand effort.

Cechi's "In Deep Thought" is a pretty study and received general admiration.

"A Moorish Merchant Prince," by Rivas, is full of rich coloring and strong nationality.

Meissonier's "A Soldier Reading a Dispatch," and Sir Edwin Landseer's "A Wounded Tiger," are the gems of the collection, and will no doubt reach a high price at the sale.

Constantine's "Roman Ruins;" Stanfield's "Castle Island of Malta;" Gigoli's "Roman Forum;" De Franceschi's "The Arch of Septimus Severus," and Beulluria's "The Market Place at Naples," are the chief architectural specimens and evince rare finish and harmony of design.

One of the most interesting pictures on the catalogue is that of "Michael Angelo and Sebastian del Piombe Painting Together," by Rivas, which as a work of art can rest very high in the appreciation of artists.

A cunning little picture is that of Ronner's "In Mischief," showing the havoc that three kittens and a motherly mouser have made with an artist's table.

The sea scenes of the collection are few, but excellent in every respect, and should be carefully considered. Perhaps the richest bit of coloring is that of Aureli's "Preparing for the Elopement," a large piece of work, full of meaning and characterized by a wealth of design. It is a romance without words.

The sale commences to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, and will continue for three days, with sales also at 8 o'clock in the evening, under the supervision of Block & Tyler, auctioneers.

"I WAS A LITTLE FOOL!"

Mrs. Dixon's Talk to a Reporter in Chicago.

What She Says About Her Married Life and Elopement.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Registered at the Tremont Hotel, under the name of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dixon, were found last evening to be the eloping couple from St. Louis, the wife of Barnett Dixon and young John G. Curtis. A reporter sent up a card from the ladies' parlor, and Mrs. Dixon sailed in soon afterward. She was dressed with studious plainness, with not a bit of jewelry on neck, ears, wrist or hands.

"Is this Mrs. Dixon?" the reporter asked.

"Yes. What is your business with me, sir?" she replied, coldly.

"That I will tell you later."

"I prefer to be told now," she said, twirling her room-key on her finger.

"Is Mr. Dixon in?"

"No, he is not. What is your business with him?"

"I have been told that his name instead of being Dixon is Curtis."

"Indeed!" she exclaimed, carelessly.

"Is it a fact?"

"My husband's name is Dixon, sir," said the lady, highly inflignant.

"Then if your name is Dixon the young Mr. Curtis who is with you at this hotel is not your husband?"

"Who why do you ask all these things? Who do you want?"

A question or two led to a little frankness on her part and she said: "I was married to Barnett Dixon before I was sixteen years old. It was in August, and I was not sixteen until the following January. We were married in Springfield, Ill.

I WAS A LITTLE FOOL;

had always been petted, and made much of in society. My folks are among the wealthiest and best in St. Louis. My father has lived there for fifty years, and we are related to the Chouteaus and all that old French aristocracy there."

"Did you live happily with your husband?"

"Happy? Happy? Do you call being beat and cursed and abused happy? He often told me he hated the sight of me. He was a terribly dissipated man."

"But he never beat you unless when under the influence of liquor, did he?"

"Yes, he did; only a short time ago he beat me in the presence of my mother and two servants."

"He was older than yourself?"

"Twenty-five years my senior. He is fifty and I am twenty-five."

"Did your husband provide well for you?"

"No!" she exclaimed spitefully; then, softening somewhat, she said, "but he always did well by his children."

"He abused you often, you say?"

"Yes; but then I often aggravated him, and when I try."

I CAN AGGRAVATE ANY ONE

A glance at the flashing eyes satisfied the reporter that she did not exaggerate.

"The last time he went away," she continued, "he said, 'I hope never to see you again.'"

"How long has he been away?"

"About two months."

"How long have you known Mr. Curtis?"

"Oh, for some time. He used often to come and take me out riding in the evening—generally to Delmonico's. Oh, you needn't smile. It is a highly respectable place, patronized by the best people of St. Louis, but I see the POST-DISPATCH says we would not return until the early hours in the morning. That is not so. If I was never out after 7 o'clock. I was always home in time to put my children to bed. Another thing, I never did anything wrong while under the same roof as my children."

"You created considerable talk, didn't you, lately?"

"Yes, and I didn't care. My mother used to scold me for it. Finally everybody in the neighborhood got to watching me. The paper says my husband sent me $100 Friday, and that I used that to come away with. That is not so; I gave that money to mother to use for the children. I took nothing away that my husband had ever given me; not a bit of jewelry, not even a breast-pin. I left them all for my daughter. These are all the clothes I have that I am wearing, except a sealskin jacket. Mr. Curtis has furnished all the money for our expenses."

About this time

MR. CURTIS CAME INTO THE PARLOR,

in search of Mrs. Dixon, with a friend. He shook hands cordially with the reporter. "I am not ashamed of what I have done nor afraid to face the consequences," he said. He caressed his chin and remarked with a laugh: "The papers call me a heardless boy, but I have just had a good shave all the same. "I will be twenty-one in September.,,

He seemed to be amazed at the statements in the papers that he was but 17 years old.

"How did this happen?" asked the reporter.

"I'll tell you all about it. I had been for some time taking Mrs. Dixon out riding and meeting her every day or two. I knew she was abused

AND I LOVED HER.

Saturday I had some trouble with my father in regard to money matters and made up my mind to go away. I went up and asked Mrs. Dixon to go, and she consented. We each of us packed a valise, she bade good-by to her children, and we took the train for Springfield, Ill., after which we came to Chicago, and here we are. I am not sorry it has been done and believe it to have been the proper thing. My plans are these: Mr. Dixon will now get a divorce, having good grounds. I shall then marry the lady. I shall come of age in September and then I will have enough means to live upon, at least."

"In the meantime?"

"In the meantime, there are too many people in Chicago who know me; so we leave for Louisville to-night.

THEN

we'll stay there and get a rest and then go somewhere else. The world is wide."

BLOOMINGTON, ILL., April 26.—The attorneys of Patsy Devine, the condemned murderer of Aaron Goodfellow, have decided to again take the case before the Supreme Court, and will take the preliminary steps the last of the present week. It seems to be a certain thing that the Governor will not interfere, and his attorneys, while they will appeal to the Supreme Court for another trial, have very little hope that they will be able to save their unfortunate client.

WEARINESS.

O little feet! that such long years
Must wander on through hopes and fears,
Must ache and bleed beneath your load;
I, nearer to the wayside inn
Where toil shall cease and rest begin,
Am weary, thinking of your road!

O little hands! that, weak or strong,
Have still to serve or rule so long,
Have still so long to give or ask;
I, who so much with book and pen
Have toiled among my fellow men,
Am weary, thinking of your task.

O little hearts! that throb and beat
With such impatient, feverish heat,
Such limitless and strong desires;
Mine that so long has glowed and burned,
With passions into ashes turned
Now covers and conceals its fires.

O little souls! as pure and white
And crystaline as rays of light
Direct from heaven, their source divine;
Refracted through the mist of years,
How red my setting sun appears,
How lurid looks this soul of mine!

LONGFELLOW.

MORGANATIC MARRIAGES.

The Odd Mixture of Royal and Plebeian Blood Existing in Europe.

New York Cor. Chicago Times.

In one of this morning's papers there is a brief "obituary note," as follows: "Emilie Loisset, a celebrated circus equestrienne, died in Paris yesterday, from the effects of being crushed by a horse which she was exercising in the Winter circus." Only a few minutes before I had been reading in another newspaper an article of the orthodox sort on the particular blueness and purity of royal and princely blood, the writer evidently laboring under the impression that the fact that a pedigree is long and accurately kept is a voucher for the morality and nobleness of all the folk named within its corners. The death of this circus-rider affords provocation for a glance through a file of the scarlet-covered and crown-bespangled "Almanach de Gotha." Emilie Loisset, the Patti of the sawdust ring, as she has been called, was the niece of Louise Loisset and the sister of Clotilde Loisset, equestriennes as famous. She had piqued all Paris of late by her obstinate opposition to society. Said a recent writer: "At London, Vienna, St. Petersburg, she has never been seen except alone. In vain flowers and presents have been strewn in her path; in vain five splendid horses were given to her as one would give a bag of sweetmeats; nobody has ever yet penetrated the privacy of the ecuyere. Every day at 1 o'clock Mile. Emilie comes to the circus and works for four or five hours with her five horses. Then she goes away alone. Sometimes she may be seen in the Bois, alone. After the performance at night she goes home on foot, and accompanied only by a big white Newfoundland dog, Turk, who would swallow any interloper who ventured to follow or speak to his mistress." Her aunt married the son of the celebrated Henrietta Sontag, by her husband Count Rossi. Her sister espoused a real, live Prince, Henry XX., of Reuss-Kœstritz, that family whose male members were all christened Henry, and distinguished by number, a new series beginning with each century, so that the pedigree looks a good deal like a page out of a Kentucky herd book. The Prince wasn't much of a catch. He had been dismissed from the Prussian army, and had been through the bankruptcy court; his family only gave him a small allowance, and his relatives and creditors hunted him so hard that he had to spend his honeymoon at Heligoland. The family made him surrender his princely rank, created him Baron Henry von Kerchenfels, and shipped him to Bulgaria, where he is now an A. D. C. to Prince Alexander. In spite of all that the Parisian writer has said about Mlle. Emilie Loisset having lived alone, it was announced three years ago that she had married her prince, one of the Hertzfeldts.

ANOTHER CIRCUS-RIDER WHO MARRIED A PRINCE

was our dashing countrywoman, Agnes Leclercq, who, before the war, starred as a rider and dancer in the West and South, married Prince Felix, of Salm-Salm, whom she made a Brigadier-General, obtaining for herself a Captain's commission; took her husband to Mexico and made a very creditable attempt at saving Maximilian's life; was left a widow in the war of 1870; married as her third husband an Englishman named Heneage, and, after a quarrel and a lawsuit, became reconciled to him, and settled with him in Styria. Everybody knows that Rachel's blood mingled with that of Napoleon, by her liaison with his illegitimate son, Count Walewski; that of the danseuse Theresa Elssler, was united with the Hohenzollern strain by her marriage with Prince Albert of Prussia. (Her sister Fanny, it may be remembered, was sold in early girlhood to Metternich's friend, Gentz.) In fact the pious Princes of Germany, with their privilege of morganatic marriage and divorce, occupy an enviable position as compared with other royal personages. The morganatic marriage, it may be said, is one where the wife, being of inferior rank, takes her dowry—"morning gift"—and waives for herself and her children all claim to the rank and possessions of her husband. It was thus that Frederick William III. of Prussia espoused the Countess von Harrac, whom he created Princess von Liegnitz. Among the Princes now living who have taken to themselves such "half wives," are Prince Charles of Baden, brother of the Grand Duke; Prince Louis of Bavaria, brother of the Empress of Austria; Prince Nicholas of Nassau, whose niece is about to marry Queen Victoria's son; Prince Gustavus of Saxe-Weimar, brother of her protege, Prince Edward, the reigning Duke of Saxe-Meiningen, whose son's wife is the grandchild of Queen Victoria and the Emperor William; Prince Leopold of Saxe-Coburg—close kinsman of the late Prince Consort, Prince Albert of Waldeck, another uncle of the future Duchess of Albany, and his brother, Prince Eric. This list only includes regnant families. By rights Queen Victoria's cousin, the duke of Cambridge, should be included in it, though the Queen has never sanctioned his union with the actress, Miss Augusta Fairbrother, who has borne him the Fitzgeorges. There is also some doubt as to whether the union of the Duke Alexander of Wurtemberg, whence spring the Tecks, also near relatives of the Queen, was strictly legal. If, however, it comes to that, is to be found several times in the shields of Queen Victoria's ancestors. As every one knows, William the Conqueror was the bastard son of Arietta the Fair and Robert the Devil. Henry VII.—Harry Richmond—laid his claim to the crown through the marriage of John of Gaunt and his mistress, Catherine Swynford, and the subsequent legitimation of their children born out of wedlock. Finally, the wife of George I., and mother of George II., was a bastard under English law, and not until after her birth were her parents (morganatically united) regularly married. Their late union made her legitimate in Germany, but not in England. The Duke of Leuchtenberg, a descendant of Eugene Beauharnais and of the Russian imperial family can not pass his titles or possessions to his wife, Mme. Akinfow. It was he who fought the curious duel a few years ago with the Prince of Oldenburg, who, in a quarrel over a ballet-dancer, cast up to the Duke the frailties of his mother, the Grand Duchess Marie, for which not even her marriage with Count Strogonoff atoned. They drew lots to see which should poison himself, and the Prince lost. The late Czar's marriage with the Princess Dolgorouki and Alexis' informal union with a clever and amiable woman may be mentioned here.

THE BAR-SINISTER OF BASTARDY

Marriages and mesaliances have brought about some curious complications in European royal and princely families. It is not necessary to dwell on such cases as those of Maria Christina of Spain, and her daughter, Isabella II., whose loyal subjects devise for her a title diametrically opposed to that of Isabella the Catholic; nor yet upon the marriage of a young Bourbon with Miss Hamel, of New York, and the coveted marriage of another with the daughter of Mrs. "Bonanza" Mackey. The sister of Queen Victoria's son-in-law, Prince Christian of Holstein, is a doctor's wife. Of the same family was Prince Frederick, who married in Syria, not long before his death, Miss Mary Esther Lee, of New York (she is now the wife of Moltke's successor, Count von Waldersee), and his son married the daughter of a Venezulan shopkeeper named Eisenblatt. The late King of Italy had, like his imperial brother of Russia, a second wife and a family not recorded in the "Gotha." The Lichensteins are among the richest and haughtiest of European princes. Prince Alois married in 1872 "Mary Fox," the adopted daughter of the last Lord Holland,

WHOSE PARENTAGE NO ONE EVER KNEW.

Lady Holland presented her at court with a private assurance to the Queen that she was the daughter of a French Marquis, M. de Montague, who could not bear to have the child near him as its mother had died in giving it birth, but the Marquis publicly denied this. The hereditary Prince of Monaco is another man of complicated family experiences. He married in 1869 a daughter of the Duke of Hamilton, to whom it occurred ten years afterward that she had been forced into the union against her will. The Holy See obligingly annulled the marriage (as it did that of a captain of cuirassiers who had been intimidated into marriage by a bed-ridden maiden aunt of 75), and declared that the Prince and Princess had never been united, but as the son born of the union was needed as an heir to the throne he was declared the legitimate offspring of unmarried parents. Another family just beneath royal rank is that of Erbach. It is descended from Charlemagne's daughter Imma, and his secretary, Eginhardt. It is true that Eginhardt says that none of Charlemagne's daughters ever married, and that history credits them with incestuous relations with their father, but none the less the Erbachs are very proud of their descent. The head of the house has married a gardener's daughter, and two of his sons (also morganatically) women as "unborn," one of them the daughter of the village postmaster. If you look under the title "Bourbon," you find no mention of the Duchess of Berry and her husband, Lucchesi,—no indication that the Count Chambord has any half-sister, but you will find them under the title "Massimo." There are several other princes who have made "mesalliances" with Americans, such as the Duke of Lante Monfeltrio, who married Miss Matilda David, of New York; the Marquis of Bassano, who married Miss Syme, of Quebec; the Prince of Lynar, who married Miss May Parsons, of Elmenhurst, O.; the Prince of Vicovaro, who married a daughter of Mr. Lorillard Spencer, of New York, and Count Leopold von Stolberg, set down as marrying the daughter of "Smollett Mongomerie Eddington, of Glencreggan, Maucato (Mankato), Minn." There are some conspicuous instances of love leveling rank. It has been said that a Princess of Holstein made herself happy with Dr. Esmarch. Last year the Princess Pauline, of Wurtemberg, married Dr. Wilm, a young practitioner who had cured her. She had to surrender her rank, and the court chaplain delivered an allocution to her at the altar, calling on her husband to appreciate her sacrifices, whereon the Princess told him so pointedly that it was far from a sacrifice to that the chaplain hurried through the service and left without waiting for breakfast. The Duke Charles Theodore of Bavaria, brother of the Empress of Austria, is one of the few princes of Europe brought up to a profession. He is a highly accomplished doctor and oculist. Prince Rudolph, of Thurn and Taxis, is a doctor of laws. I cannot now recall any other prince or princess with a profession save arms or religion. Among those who have entered the church may be mentioned Count Herman Fugger, a Jesuit, while three other members of the family are nuns; four Countesses of Stolberg, who entered convents, and a Count who is priest of a Swedish parish, and two of the Broglies, who are monks. I have not counted Bishops and Cardinals of course. There is one noble theater manager in Germany—Count Platen, of Dresden. The showing on the other side is more formidable. One of the Lichtenstein Princes has just had to repudiate the debts of his youthful son and forbid any one to trust him; a Langravine of Hesse has gone through the bankruptcy court, and so on. But when I am desirous of contemplating the princely snob in all his glory I turn to the house of Saxe-Coburg and Sayn-Witgenstein. Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg was a younger son and poor when, in 1816, he married the only child of a Hungarian magnate. Prince Koharz, who left her husband all his immense fortune on condition that the young man should call himself "Coburg-Koharz." One of Ferdinand's sons became King of Portugal, another married Louis Philippe's daughter, and so on, and ten years ago they dropped the "Koharz" but kept the fortune. Prince Ludwig of Sayn-Wittgenstein married Frau Lilienthal, daughter of a Berlin banker, enjoyed her fortune and bequeathed her his debts. The family then sued the widow and prevented her from assuming her husband's name and bearing his arms, the court deciding that when the noble husband was pleased to die the wife returned to her former base-born condition.

EXCHANGE RANK FOR AFFECTION

Women in Russia.

From the Fortnightly Review.

In Russia, where in the middle classes the seclusion of women was even a few years ago nearly as great as in a harem, the advocate of women's rights would to-day find little to demand for any class of females above the level of the peasantry. The moujik still administers corporal chastisement to his wife as he would to his child, and his right to do so, though denied by the written law, is tacitly acknowledged in practice. The girl, however, whose brother has been described as going to the Lycee and subsequently to the university, is nearly as independent as her male relations. Like her brother, and from similar causes, she too often becomes disgusted with her home, and determines to seek what she imagines to be the delights of the independent life led by the numerous female students who follow various university courses, and particularly that of medicine. Sometimes, when her parents refuse her permission to leave home, she simply runs away, and having no passport, her position at once becomes illegal, and she naturally finds her companions among those who, like herself, have got into some trouble with the authorities. In some cases enthusiasts like Solovieff, who fired at the late Czar in April, 1879, marry girls with whom they have scarcely any acquaintance, and for whom they have no feeling of affection, merely to free them from the obligation of obtaining a passport from their parents, and their consent to leave home. The young husband and wife proceed together to the university town, and there, having no particular taste for each other's society, they often separate immediately, and even where they would desire to maintain their mutual connection, the pressure of poverty and the difficulties of their position frequently oblige them to part company.

Even without the specially demoralizing effect of such circumstances as I have just mentioned, the general influences of life at the universities are most injurious to the majority of the young women who frequent them. The ideas of family ties and of the obligations of married life which prevail in the homes of the students are probably lax enough, but even these are cast to the winds by the young men and women who adopt a code of morals of their own in the Bohemian society of which they have become members. Parental authority, which a few years ago was such a marked feature in domestic life in Russia, has become a thing of the past as far as regards the majority of the students, and university and Government officials are equally condemned. The mystic reverence for the Czar appears absurd to the young philosophers, and the Church itself is despised by those who have learnt to recognize the ignorance of its ministers and the superstition with which its rights are practiced by the ignorant masses.

THERE is no worse enthrallment for tormented man than the exactions of a morbid nervous condition. The over-taxed brain then gets no rest from tranquil sleep and needs the pacifying influence of Dr. C. W. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills.

Costumes for Riding.

From the Philadelphia Times.

This is just the season for horseback riding and therefore a few hints about habits will be acceptable. In Paris the riding habit is quite simple, a good deal shorter than it used to be made formerly, glove-fitting, with a short basque turned up into revers at the back. But as a variety to this young ladies have very generally adopted this spring the riding habit of creamy white or pale buff, instead of the dark cloth one. The bodice is a glove-fitting cuirass, lengthened behind into cot lappets and trimmed with buttons of carved pearl. The neck is finished with a deep ruffle of creamy lace. As for the sleeves, they are partly concealed under the long gloves of soft deer-skin which are slipped over them. The hat is a broad-brimmed Gainsborough, caught up on one side with a long white ostrich feather, which curls round the crown. The hat itself is of white felt, lined with deep blue or red velvet or satin. This head-gear is too becoming to be soon left off. When the weather is very warm, however, the hat to be worn is of thin, soft felt, lined with silk, which is quite as light and pleasant to wear.

In New York and Philadelphia habits are made in dark cloth, bottle-green, navy-blue, plum, prune and black. The skirts are, as in Parisian habits, much shorter than they used to be, and the dresses are made either in one glove-fitting princess habit or they have skirts and basques, either pointed or in jacket or coat shape. With such habits the hats are jaunty beavers, modest Derbys or in any of the stylish fashionable shapes, with, however, but little trimming, except the elegant plume and perhaps a large double bow of wide ribbon. A very stylish habit is of very dark brown cloth made with coat basque, with deep tabs in the back. The hat is of black silk, high crown and narrow brim.

French Literary Twins.

From the London Truth.

Chatrian is a clerk is the Eastern Railway Terminus and was able to attend a few of the rehearsals, but had the good sense not to direct the actors. At Riancy he has in a slip of orchard a little chalet, where he lives all the year round. Erckmann resides at Toul. It would be impossible for him to exist without the breath of the true country and the sight of fresh valleys and hop plantations. He is a big, loose-built old man of pure German type. His face is placid. He is not curiously observant. Those eyes of his, which receive the most delicate impressions of the outer world as he is pondering and dreaming, are of a pale blue, and look out on the world through gold-rimmed spectacles. Erckmann is at once a dreamer, a rock of sense and a humorist; in a mild way Chatrian elaborates the characters that his fellow workman sketches, but he never touches a description or moral reflection. They sometimes discuss their plots by letter. When they have to put their heads together, Erckmann comes to Riancy, which is five miles out of Paris on the Strasburg line. In his visits to the capital he rarely penetrates farther west than a beer saloon in the Faubourg St. Denis. He feels no curiosity to see on the stage an Erckmann-Chatrain novel dramatized. False rusticities hurt his eye. Altogether he finds them unsatisfactory and is glad to avoid them.

Remarkable Colorado Springs.

Denver Letter to Troy Times.

There are in these mountains in the immediate vicinity of Denver some of the most beautiful and remarkable springs known in the world. Most of them have been improved, and are now popular resorts for invalids and pleasure-seekers. The great number of people thronging all these resorts during the past season, and the popularity that has been attained by the comforts and luxuries to be found, is one of the sources of business prosperity that gives to Denver its value as a place to invest capital in. All the supplies, comforts, luxuries, etc., for the mountain region in this vicinity must come through this city, and, of course, leave a share of profits in the hands of every party that is engaged in furnishing these supplies. Fresh fruits, vegetables, fresh meats, groceries of every kind and canned goods without end find their way from Denver, not only to cities, villages, mining camps and summer resorts, but into the out-of-way nooks and shady retreats large enough to shelter a tent. One cannot get so far away from the haunts of men as not to find evidences of previous visitors in the shape of empty cans, and if they could only be utilized a fortune would be speedily made by the invention of the process.

THERE is less talk about street reconstruction than there was a month ago. Can it be possible that the progressive spasms has expended itself?

WE observe that the Street Commissioner is not advertising for macadam nowadays for street reconstruction purposes. This must grieve the old Macadam Ring sorely.

THIS is the beginning of the second week of the extra session of the Legislature. Ten thousand dollars have been squandered and there is nothing to show for the money.

IT seems that we have failed to light the prairie fires in behalf of Maj. JOHN EDWARDS' gubernatorial boom. At this season of the year the prairie grass is a little damp, it should be remembered.

GEN. SKOBELEFF is reported to be dangerously ill. He probably checked his spree with too much suddenness. It is presumed that they know something of the merits of bromide of potassium in Russia.

IT is the plain duty of the Municipal Assembly to investigate Sewer Commissioner WISE. His incompetency in connection with the Mill Creek sewer ought to be thoroughly shown up and then some method should be found to restore him to private life.

IT has been demonstrated that the undulating streets of St. Louis are not adapted to the uses of Herdic coaches. It has also been demonstrated that the soft and pliable streets of St. Louis are not improved by contact with the Herdic coaches. It is thus that the world goes on accumulating information day after day.

A NEW mutual benefit secret society is bidding for favor in St. Louis. It is called the National American Association. None but native Americans can become members, and one of the objects, outside of paying a premium on cadavers, is to "keep alive the spirit of '76." Is this the nucleus of another Know Nothing organization?

IT costs the State $1,500 per day to run the Legislature at Jefferson City. Up to this time $10,000 has been expended and the statesmen have scarcely warmed their seats. Meantime the town of Brownsville has been sacked by a cyclone, the Southwest has been inundated and the FORD boys have petitioned for their blood-money. Let all these facts be recorded.

THE Franklin Debating Club, of this city, last night discussed the killing of JESSE JAMES, and decided that it was a brutal murder and that Gov. CRITTENDEN was an accessory to the crime. The subject is to be handled again at a special meeting on Saturday evening. The Governor will be pained to observe that the argument is all on one side in this case.

GOV. CRITTENDEN is so well pleased with the progress of the able Legislature in redistricting the State for Congressional purposes that he has concluded to send in a message to-day recommending that the State be redistricted for Legislative purposes also. It looks now as though some of the able bucolic law-makers in attendance at Jefferson City, would be detained beyond corn-planting time. This would be in the nature of actual damage to the State, for a shortage in the crop will affect all of us.

THE poor, persecuted Jews in Southern Russia have been seized with the idea that the married members of their sect are entitled to free homes in Palestine and the United States. A dispatch from Odessa says that they are marrying there at the rate of a hundred and fifty couples a day. Of course this is only intensifying the suffering and extending the area of persecution. President ARTHUR should send a telegram to Odessa at once correcting the rumor that we are giving homesteads to Hebrew families in this country.

IT seems that the pleasant task of defending Mr. GEORGE H. PENDLETON'S reputation as a railroad manager and financier has fallen to the Cincinnati Commercial. The last number of that excellent paper contains several editorial columns, beautifully ornamented with figures, which demonstrate that in the management of the celebrated BOWLER estate Mr. P. displayed wisdom, prudence and foresight almost beyond his years. The purpose of this careful exhibit, we believe, is to enlighten and calm the editor of the Enquirer, who has of late been pained and alarmed by certain newspaper reflections on the talented gentleman who failed so signally to ride into the White House on a Greenback boom manufactured exclusively for him in the cellar of the Enquirer office.

CRITTENDEN is gradually forcing himself into a quandary. In going about eating his indiscreet interviews and taking back the early statements which he made regarding his full and complete responsibility for the killing of JESSE JAMES, he is losing the respect and support of the heroic class which was [illegible] disposed to indorse his lawlessness. Cases in the Globe-Democrat is disgusted with [illegible] fishing and it says this morning to [illegible] Governor recedes from his position [illegible] Murderer it will be compelled to [illegible] estimate of him and it isn't very high now. We have less respect ourselves for the Governor than we had a month ago, and that's saying a great deal. Having committed a deliberate crime, the Governor should have stood up to it. That was a peculiarity of the JAMES boys when they were in the business. Perhaps the Governor has qualms of conscience.

MRS. SATZMAN, the owner of the house in which the distinguished Col. JAMES lost his life while dusting a picture, has sued Gov. CRITTENDEN and the State for damages. She claims that her house was worth $3,000 prior to the killing of the outlaw, but has suffered a loss by the relic-hunters, and as the killing was the work of the State's agents she wants the State to pay. Perhaps our intellectual Governor will see the propriety of at once having Mrs. SATZMAN prosecuted for keeping a disorderly house or renting the same for improper purposes. It seems to us, however, that the old lady ought to have a part of the blood money. She furnished the trap in which the desperado was caught.

THERE is no likelihood that the great dramatic festival, designed by the celebrated St. Louis impressario, OTEY HALL, for the benefit of the poor but hungry æsthetes of Cincinnati, will be held this year. JOHN MCCULLOUGH says that there will be no time to prepare for the exhibition next autumn. His engagements will prevent him from taking part. He says that EDWIN BOOTH will be in Europe, and that there can be no great Shakspearean revival without ED. JOE JEFFERSON says that his time is all filled for next fall and he can't attend the festival. BARRETT is rather well disposed to the enterprise, and so is RAYMOND, but both are of the opinion that nothing can be done this year on account of the engagements already entered into by the great actors.

A TERRIBLE TEMPTATION.

Judge LAUGHLIN'S business is to try criminal cases. It is not his business to pass laws. It is not his business to amend them. It is not his business to repeal them. It is not his business to examine into their wisdom or constitutionality. That is reserved to the Legislature and the Supreme Court. Judge LAUGHLIN is simply a trial judge. He is not a court of appeals. He cannot go behind the law as it stands. Yet Judge LAUGHLIN has already taken into most serious and prolonged consideration the very question whether he can utterly abolish and wipe out a law now upon the statute book.

For let it be distinctly understood—what is now so generally misunderstood—that if Judge LAUGHLIN'S decision should be, as it is, alas, expected to be, in favor of the gamblers, it will be precisely as though the Legislature had not passed the JOHNSON law at all, or as if it had repealed it, or as if it had been declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals.

The worst of it is that under the most extraordinary condition of the law there is no appeal from Mr. LAUGHLIN'S decision by the State. The gambler can appeal. The State cannot. Thus, if Mr. LAUGHLIN decides in favor of the gamblers, his decision would be a finality, beyond appeal or change!

His decision would mean that the Legislature did not pass the law in a proper manner; that, therefore, it was not constitutional; that thus it was no law at all, and, therefore, all proceedings and indictments were null and void.

And the State could not appeal, could do nothing against such a decision except to submit and wait till the next Legislature met and passed another law, which some other Judge might again nullify at his pleasure.

That this is the monstrous state of the criminal law in Missouri we have taken pains to ascertain beyond doubt. All the authorities on criminal law that have been consulted hold the same view.

The revised statutes, following in fact the language of the old statute on the subject, declare (Section 1985): "The State in any criminal prosecution shall be allowed an appeal only in the cases and under the circumstances mentioned in the next succeeding section."

The next section (1986) reads as follows: "When any indictment is quashed or adjudged insufficient upon demurrer, or when judgment thereon is arrested, the court in which the proceedings were had, either from its own knowledge or from information given by the Prosecuting Attorney that there is reasonable ground to believe that the defendant can be convicted of any offense, if properly charged, may cause the defendant to be committed or recognized to answer a new indictment; or if the Prosecuting Attorney, prays an appeal to the Supreme Court, the court may, in its discretion, grant an appeal."

The statute is too plain to be misunderstood. The Supreme Court has repeatedly passed upon its meaning when misunderstood by ignorant country prosecutors, the last decision being in 1879, in the case of the State vs. Bollinger, reported in the sixty-ninth volume of the Supreme Court reports. After quoting the two sections above set out, the court says: "We think it quite clear that under the above sections the right of the State to prosecute an appeal is limited to those cases where the indictment has been adjudged to be insufficient either on motion to quash, on demurrer or motion in arrest of judgment because of defective indictment." Again: "From the action of the trial court the State cannot appeal. If, on the trial of the cause the court had given a wrong instruction, or instructed the jury that under the evidence they should acquit the defendant, although such instructions might be erroneous and ultimate in the discharge of a criminal, no appeal could be taken by the State, because the law so declares."

In the gambling cases the question whether the Legislature observed all the Constitutional forms in passing the act is raised by a motion to the jurisdiction of the court. If act was not properly passed, then the of[illegible] is still a misdemeanor triable only by the Court of Criminal Correction and not by the Criminal Court, which has no jurisdiction to try misdemeanors. The motion goes back farther and attacks the Revised Statutes themselves, and pretends to maintain that the Revision Committee improperly changed the proper titles of certain criminal statutes.

It will be readily seen from the above that from the decision of Judge LAUGHLIN on this question there is provided no appeal for the State. In this point there is no room for difference of opinion.

Who can fail to wonder at Judge LAUGHLIN'S hesitancy under these circumstances? If he decides for the State the gamblers can appeal and the Supreme court can decide the constitutionality of the law. If he decides against the State, there is no appeal.

THE scientific hydraulic engineers who built a center wall in the mouth of the largest sewer in the city and then left the sewer filled with loose supporting timbers have had the satisfaction of demonstrating that natural causes will produce natural results. An examination of the Mill Creek sewer yesterday developed a mass of timbers, driftwood and dead carcasses lodged against the obstructing division wall, constituting a most perfect dam. The recent break resulted directly from this choking-up, which any schoolboy could have predicted, knowing the peculiar construction of the sewer. Explorations reveal that the sewer has been filling with debris for months. In some cities, where Incompetency does not find honor and steady employment, it is customary to send men occasionally into the large sewers to investigate their condition and see that obstructions are removed. It is evident that not a man connected with our public works has had his nose inside the lower section of the Mill Creek sewer for six months. In view of all the facts, this sort of negligence is nothing less than criminal. In nearly every department of the city government we are confronted with the same sort of stupidity—expensive as well as annoying—and it is about time for the tax-payers to enter their protest in such an emphatic way that the gentlemen at the City Hall will be likely to hear it.

WHEN the present session of the Legislature convened we sent, by way of compliment, one of our most talented and accomplished reporters up to Jefferson City with instructions to permit nothing of importance to escape him. This is the sad wail that reaches us this morning from the melancholy and heart-sick young man:

MADISON HOUSE,
JEFFERSON CITY, April 25, 1882.

Dear Friend:

This infernal town is intolerable. There is no news here. Nothing but a dreary loaf from morning till night. If there was a thing to do which could not be done oy the office boy, would not say a word, but there isn't. I wish you would get Mr. P. to recall me and send somebody else up. I simply can't stand the d—d place, and the idea of laying round this hotel until those mutton-headed fools fool away the time between now and the middle of May positively fills me with horror. Try your eloquence in this good cause and add one more obligation. MCE.

It is due to this reporter to say that when he went to Jefferson City he was a moral and reasonably upright young man. His profanity seems to have resulted from despair and the demoralization which must necessarily follow contact with a legislative body in a small town which offers no recreation outside of whisky-drinking and poker-playing. If Gov. CRITTENDEN has any pity in his soul he will prorogue the Legislature and permit this wretched young man to return home.

MAYOR EWING has the good sense to recommend that the city proceed at once to adjust and pay the losses sustained by the unfortunate citizens in the southeastern section of the city whose houses were invaded last Saturday evening by the filthy waters of the Mill Creek sewer. This overflow was the direct result of the incompetency and negligence of the city's official agents. The city is clearly responsible for every dollar of damage resulting from this break. There is no necessity for delay or litigation. We are quick to detect a job or an exorbitant bill against the city and would certainly oppose the payment of a single penny to anybody not justly entitled to it, but in this case there can be no question as to the city's responsibility. A commission should be appointed at once to assess the damages and the Municipal Assembly should order a prompt and satisfactory settlement of them.

THE survivers of the crew of the plucky "Monitor," the little giant that fought the rebel "Merrimac" in Hampton Roads, are calling on Congress to award them, as prize money, the value of the rebel ram which was originally stolen from the Government. History records the fact that the "Merrimac" was blown up by her commander after her encounter with the "Monitor." She committed suicide, so to speak, but it was doubtless from chagrin resulting from the failure to knock the saucy little Ericsson ship to pieces. The crew of the vessel that sunk the terrible cruiser, the "Alabama," was awarded nearly two hundred thousand dollars, and we presume there would be no impropriety in giving the "Monitor" boys all that they ask.

THERE was great haste last week to punish Circuit Attorney HARRIS for his alleged arbitrary assumption of power in dealing with the lottery gamblers. It was with difficulty that the able attorneys for the suffering lottery men could restrain themselves. This week it seems that they are so occupied with the big events which crowd upon them that they have almost forgotten the dangerous assault made by Mr. HARRIS upon human liberty. Can it be possible that they were only "bluffing" in the first place, or have they realized that they are in imminent danger of striking a snag in the strong current of public opinion?

PERSONAL.

—Mr. Stephen Fiske has resigned the editorship of the New York Star.

—The women students were kept out of the Harvard Medical School by a majority of one vote in its Board of Management.

—Mr. Beecher recently made the acquaintance of Oscar Wilde at Chicago, and he will entertain the æsthete at Peekskill in June.

—It would be difficult to find a stricter Sabbatarian than the Rev. A. Busch, of Winona, Minn. All his five children were born on Sunday.

—Anna Dickinson will leave New York next month to play Hamlet in England. It is very evident that America is to be the great summer resort this season.

—Rear-Admiral John Rogers, the most accomplished and gallant of living officers of the American navy, is slowly sinking with Bright's disease at his home in Washington.

—Dr. George Donnally, of Georgetown, wearied of his 200 pounds avoirdupois and quit eating. Inflammation of the stomach followed, and he died last Saturday, the ninth day of his fast.

—A cable dispatch states that Lord Churchhill is en route for this country. Lord Randolph Churchill will be remembered as having married the daughter of a man who once offered $25,000 for Parole.

—Moville N. W. Wraxall succeeds to the Wraxall Baronetcy of England by the death of his brother. The new Baronet was a pawnbroker's apprentice, and the peer whom he succeeds died in dire poverty.

—William Gowen, of Lawrence, Mass., whose creditors four years ago accepted his offer to settle an indebtedness of $50,000 at 40 per cent, has just informed them that he is prepared and willing to pay the remaining $60,000 with interest. The date of Mr. Gowen's trial for insanity has not been set.

—Mlle. Lina Munta, the actress of whom Bernhardt was jealous because of the attentions which the present Mr. Bernhardt paid her, told Sarah, in the course of one of their quarrels, that "M. Damala would not be such a fool as to throw himself away upon a pair of castanents." The general impression in this country is that the cableman inserted castanets where darning-needles was written in the dispatch. Mlle. Munta would hardly have been so far out of the way in her calculations.

That Legion of Honor Affair.

ST. LOUIS, April 26.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your first edition of yesterday was an article which did injustice to the Legion of Honor in general and to Shakspeare Council in particular. Being a member of that council, and having been present at the meeting referred to, I deem it my duty to assure you that your reporter was misinformed. It being a secret society, I cannot, of course, tell you what occurred, but I may with propriety tell you what did not occur. In the first place there was no clergyman initiated. In the next place nothing occurred which gave offense to the gentlemen who were initiated, or which called forth from them, or either of them, any expression of displeasure.

The attempt to make it appear that in the initiation of new members into Shakspeare Council, or to any council in the Legion of Honor, there are any offensive practices, or anything that could offend the sensibilities of the most refined gentleman, is wholly unwarranted.

It is of course impossible for a reporter of any newspaper to escape being imposed upon sometimes, but I was much gratified to discover that the offensive article was withdrawn before it reached your last edition.

Respectfully,
L. B. VALLIANT.

A Shame.

ST. LOUIS, April 26, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I write to your fearless newspaper to tell about the cruel hoax played on several girls on Monday morning. There was an "ad." in Sunday's G.-D. to this effect: "Wanted—Fifty girls for light work. Apply to Louis Schonberger, No. 1440 North Main street." When we arrived at the street designated we found that Louis Schonberger was a myth and No. 1440 North Main street was Filley's foundry. Probably over one hundred girls were "fooled" by this piece of malignant devilry. Whoever inserted the "ad." had very little to do. I observed that some of the girls took advantage of the situation and were "mashing" the molders, but these were a very small proportion out of the large number. Perhaps it was a source of amusement to the advertiser to see so many poor girls turn away discouraged and heart-broken. I need hardly state how many girls are out of employment at present in our city. With rent and provisions so high, and work so scarce, I think it is hardly a fit time to play tricks, and it must be some revoltingly wicked person who did so.

A United States Consul.

From the Public Spirit.

One of the discoveries I made in Cuba this winter was that J. J. Landrean, the man who figures as the lay figure in the Shipherd & Co. Peruvian claim for many millions of dollars, was a United States Consul at Santiago, on the south side of Cuba, at a salary of $3,500 per annum.

Mr. Shipherd's Oversight.

The important fact seems to have escaped Mr. Shipherd's memory that Blaine is a planned knight, and therefore a dangerous man to tackle. Mr. Shipherd should apply for apartments in the Cave of Gloom, and remain there until healed.

THE FLOWER MISSION.

Preliminary Meeting and Preparations for the Regular Summer Work.

A preliminary meeting of the Ladies' Flower Mission was held at the rooms of the Presbyterian Board of Publication at 10 o'clock this morning. The meeting was favored with a full attendance. The object of the meeting was to arrange for the regular work of distribution, which will begin next Wednesday morning. Several donations were received this morning, the majority of which were distributed among special cases, and at St. Luke's Hospital. A handsome collection of hot-house flowers were received from Mrs. Horton. Miss Andre sent a box of magazines and weekly papers. Four pressed specimens of the beautiful edelweiss, which were plucked from the top of Mont Blanc, were also received from this lady. The annual meeting of the mission will take place during the second week in May. Among those present this morning were Mrs. Barnard, Langdon, Finley and the Misses Glover, Ferguson, Peck, Ball, Andre, Brady, Slaughtery, and Mr. Edward Jackson, the superintendent. Donations to be distributed next Wednesday will be thankfully received.

A RELIGIOUS REFORMER.

Collector Hudson's Queer Doings—Remarkable Statement of Mr. Nolan.

Jake Esher has secured his license to run his saloon and variety show on St. Charles street. This is so, notwithstanding that the property owners of the block claim that a majority them have protested most strenuously against the issuance of the same. When Esher's license expired, his application for a renewal was refused, yet he continued to run his establishment from March 22d until last Monday without let or hindrance. The statement of John B. Noland, published below, reflects rather seriously on the authorities. It seems to show that Collector Hudson's record as a reformer is not at all in accord with his published utterances on that subject. The fact that he compelled Uhrig's Cave, which was a respectable place, to close, and that Esher could run for more than a month, without a license, is certainly curious, if nothing else. Mr. Noland is a property-holder in the block where the Esher keeps the show, and he makes the following statement of facts in the case:

"About the 12th of March, Esher petitioned for a dramshop license. As soon as I heard of it, I got up a petition and had it signed by a majority of the taxpayers and residents on the block, entitled to be heard against any license being granted to said Esher. After this was filed with the Collector, Mr. Hudson, a deputy of his went around and asked all parties on the block how they stood in regard to a license being granted Mr. Esher, and the deputy told me there was a majority against granting a license. Here I thought the matter would end, but it did not, for soon after another deputy collector was around trying to get parties to sign in favor of a license. I immediately appealed to Mr. Hudson, protesting against any of his deputies trying to assist Mr. Esher in getting a license. I asked Mr. Hudson on two occasions, after what had transpired as above stated, to report Mr. Esher to the proper authorities as having no license, and as running a dramshop. This he declined to do. I then reported the facts to the Chief of Police, who promptly had Mr. Esher summoned to appear before the Police Court. How often he was so summoned I do not know, nor do I know how often it was continued, but finally the case was set for hearing on the 21st inst., and I was there to prevent any further delay, if possible, and so informed the City Attorney. The City Attorney called the case and continued it until the 25th inst., to which I made objection. He then said he had a note from the Collector requesting the continuance, and that it rested with the Collector. I will state here that Mr. Hudson says he did not send such a note. In a conversation with Mr. Hudson, after I had filed my protest against any license to Mr. Esher, he promised me he would not issue any license in this case without first letting me know. These are the plain facts, and the public can draw their own conclusions. Mr. Esher has his license."

WENT BEGGING.

The Office of Clerk of the Criminal Court—Mr. Patrick Stead Accepts.

This morning when the Criminal Court met Mr. Charles E. Lambert, the newly appointed clerk, handed his resignation to Judge Laughlin. In explanation he said his health was poor and the state of affairs of the office would necessitate the advancement of $600 or $700 to run it for the next three months, during which time no fees would be received. This he was not prepared to do, and in consideration of these facts he would not accept the office. Judge Laughlin then offered the appointment to Capt. Ben. Finney, who is enjoying excellent health and could furnish any amount of bond required, but that gentleman promptly declined the proffered position, stating that he was induced to refuse it for reasons of his own. He would not consent to accept a benefit which followed as a direct sequence upon Mr. Clabby's misfortune. Though urged by numerous friends to accept the position, Capt. Finney refused, and Mr. Patrick Stead, of the grocery firm of Stead Brothers, doing business on Broadway, near Carr street, was appointed, and made arrangements to qualify by furnishing the required bond, $10,000, at once. Mr. Charles E. Lambert and Capt. Finney will be reappointed to the deputy clerkships they held under Mr. Clabby's administration. The term of the appointee will expire January 1st. It is generally understood that Mr. Stead will be a candidate for the office at the November election. This is the first public office he has held. For the past five days, since the removal of Mr. Clabby, the business of the court has been accumulating. The indictments returned by the last grand jury were put away safely. No arrests could be made, however, as there was no Clerk to issue capiases. This work will be disposed of immediately, and the 375 capiases on indictments against the lottery men will be served at once. Mr. Stead is a clever young man and a great friend of Dick Lancaster, to whom he undoubtedly owes his appointment.

CITY HALL NOTES.

The Commissioner of Supplies will to-morrow receive bids for supplying the Water Department with 20,000 pounds of Missouri soft lead.

Commissioner of Public Buildings, Beattie, is busy drawing plans and specifications for three cisterns for the Fire Department in Lowell. The cisterns will be located at the intersection of Bellefontaine Road with the Hall's Ferry Plank Road.

Brother James, president of the Christian Brothers' College, now in course of erection at Cote Brilliante, was at the City Hall this morning seeking to secure connection for his institution with the city's water supply. On January 28, 1881, Brother James and every one of his neighbors in Cote Brilliante presented a petition for water pipe to the Board of Public Improvements, and the petition was favorably acted upon by the board, but for lack of means nothing has hitherto been done. Col. Flad and Mayor Ewing this morning both assured Bro. James that the matter should receive immediate and favorable action.

CHICAGO, April 26.—A special from Lordsbury, New Mexico, says that a reliable report has been received there to the effect that the town of Gualleysville has been sacked by Indians and thirty-five or forty whites massacred. The hostile party numbered 175. Gen. Forsythe took the trail at once and is now in pursuit. McKenzie is said to be on his way to join Forsythe and take command in person. Four wounded soldiers have been brought in. They are Sergeant Morley, of Company C, Sixth Cavalry, and Privates Leonard, Downey and Sullivan of the Fourth. Morley has since died. Over eighty persons are known to have been killed since the outbreak a week ago. One hundred and fifty head of stock have been killed or captured and $25,000 worth of property destroyed.

An Open Letter.

TUCSON, April 26.—At a mass-meeting of several thousand citizens, held to-night, it was unanimously directed that the following be sent, and it was immediately wired, as an open letter to the President and Cabinet and both Houses of Congress:

During the rejoicing incident to the grand military display announced to take place at Fortress Monroe, we beg to offer you as the fact that nearly a hundred of our pioneers have within a few days been wantonly murdered in cold blood by the devilish Apaches, whom a cruel and mistaken policy permits to survive their crimes. If some small portion of the expenditures incurred in your grand display could be devoted to such measures as would preclude the probability of an increase in the list of our murdered dead we could send you greeting of gratitude and cheer in place of this message of our sorrow and helplessness and our desolation.

More Murders.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., April 26.—A Tucson Dispatch special from a Tombstone citizen says Indians attacked the American mining camp at Bacuachi, Sonora, April 20, killing Messrs. Lovery, Ray and Rickey. Three others made their escape. The Indians carried off all the camp property of value. Many Americans are in the neighboring hills, and more murders are expected. The President of Bacuachi, Senor Salazar, has ordered soldiers and volunteers to pursue the Indians and take no prisoners.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

Police Magistrate Graney received his commission this morning, and expects to open an office near Mayer & Strattman's livery stable to-morrow morning.

Burglars effected an entrance to the residence of John R. Meintz, on the Island, last night, and secured about $7 in currency. A satchel belonging to Miss Meintz was found in the alley, but empty. No clue has been discovered of the burglars.

The case of George Dauch vs. M. F. Tissier was tried before 'Squire Lynn, and judgment for full amount and costs of court rendered against Tissier. Some time since a young man named Sinclair requested Mr. Tissier to accompany him to the Workingmen's Bank and identify him. Tissier did as requested, and when asked to sign his name on the back of the note did so, not knowing that the action held him responsible for payment. The note was only for $6 25, but with costs of court is nearly doubled.

BELLEVILLE'S BLAZE.

The Nail Mill Destroyed by Fire Last Night.

Loss and Insurance—Work of Rebuilding Already Commenced.

The Belleville Nail Mill was again visited by a disastrous accident last night which resulted in the almost total destruction of the largest nail manufactory in Illinois. Shortly before 11 o'clock John Goff, one of the night watchmen, discovered a bright glare through the windows of the forge department, and hurrying to the scene found the southwest corner of the forge department in a blaze. Pat. Whelan, the other night watchman, was summoned, and both men exerted themselves to control the flames with buckets of water. Finding their efforts unavailing, an alarm was turned on, and in five minutes the whole Fire Department, consisting of two engines, was at the scene of the blaze, which had assumed the proportions of a conflagration. Hundreds of people, attracted by the blaze, which was visible for miles in every direction, surrounded the burning building, greatly interfering with the work of the firemen. The flames spread so rapidly that the whole forge department was ablaze before the arrival of the Fire Department, and all hopes of saving that portion of the works being abandoned, the firemen directed their attention to surrounding property and succeeded in confining the flames to the forge department. About 11 o'clock the roof fell with a loud crash and sent burning timber flying in all directions, creating a panic in the crowd which resulted in a general stampede for safer quarters, many people being knocked down and trampled during the crush. John Abel and Krisner, two firemen, working near the burning building, narrowly escaped being crushed by the falling roof. Krisner was struck with a portion of the roof and slightly burned and bruised. John Abel, pipeman, and one of the employes named Balsami were burned and injured by the falling roof, but not seriously. The total destruction of the manufacturing department proper, which adjoins the forge department, seemed inevitable for a time, but the strenuous efforts of Chief Oester and his men subdued the flames before a foothold could be secured. The pump and skein works on the west of the nail mill is a large manufactory and was saved by the wind shifting to the northwest. The ventilator or second roof of the manufacturing department proper fell in from the excessive heat and seriously damaged much valuable machinery. Col. Waugh & Sons, proprietors of the mill, estimate their loss at between $25,000 and $30,000 to property alone. The nail mill had resumed operation only five weeks, the whole establishment being almost completely destroyed on the 30th of January last, by an explosion of the boilers. The capacity of the works was increased from 3,000 to 3,500 kegs of nails per day, and at present employed a force of 225 men, all of whom will be temporarily out of employment. The nail mill was insured in the agencies of John H. Siefert, Piepers and Bagley, representing the following companies:

American Central, $2,500; Royal, $2,500; Standard, $2,500; Western Union, $2,421 60; Tradesmen, $2,421 60; Mechanics' $2,421 60; Manhattan, $2,421 60; Boyleston Mutual, $2,421 60; Fire Insurance Association, $2,421 60; Orient, $2,421 60; Pennsylvania, $2,421 60; Lancashire, $4,843 20; Franklin, Philadelphia, $2,421 60; Manufacturers', $2,421 60; Boston Underwriters', $2,421 60; Farmers,' New York, $2,421 60; National, Hartford, $2,421 60; Providence, West Chester, $2,421 60; Westchester, $2,421 60; London Assurance, $2,421 60; North British, $2,421 60; New Hampshire, $1,210 80; Commonwealth, $968 64; Ohio, $2,461 60; Mercantile, $1,452 97; Rochester, $2,361 60.

A force of fifty men, under the supervision of Major Powell, superintendent of the works, commenced clearing away the debris preparatory to rebuilding the works. Col. Baugh expects to have the building completed in six weeks, a force of men working day and night till completed. The destruction at the present season is most disastrous, as orders for six months to come are now on hand.

INJURED INNOCENCE.

What Mr. R. C. Pate Has to Say of His Persecutors.

ST. LOUIS, April 19, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

DEAR SIR—I feel that you have did me great injustice, in this, that you have freely, on many occasions, given those that are bitter enemies of mine the full benefit of your columns, and wrote up what they might see fit to say of me to my detriment. You have undoubtedly been imposed upon by those that had designs upon me; and feeling and knowing that I have in no way injured, abused or harmed you, I ask in justice to myself and my family that you publish this statement from me. The gamblers of this city that—or a large majority of them—have lived here for many years—in fact, have grown up with your city," they are known and identified as gamblers, and they are seldom if ever charged with any other offense. Owing to the prejudices that have been worked up against them, they are, as it were, unfitted for any other avocations; therefore, when the gambling law went into effect, many of them felt that the extreme measure was infamous and uncalled for, and from advice taken believed it unconstitutional, and they felt that they had the same right to test the validity of that law that any other citizen has, "and all laws and legislation that interferes and works a hardship on any one is subject to a test. I can truthfully say, and I believe that even you will bear me out in my assertion—that the gamblers have only resorted to fair means to test the law on its merits. Mr. Harris has acted also very unfairly in raising a hugh and cry that the gamblers are making war on him; 'tis true, Mr. Lehndorf feels oppressed, and has commenced proceedings in a legal way, as all citizens have a right to do. If Mr. Harris is right he surely has nothing to fear from a proceeding in a court of justice, other than Mr. Lehndorf's legal proceedings. I know of no war being made or thought of so far as the gamblers are concerned; to my knowledge he has not been hindered, abused, or in any way mistreated. He is prosecuting attorney, the cases come before him, not satisfied with that he has applied to the Police Department, has, from appearances, worked all the hardship possible through the grand jury. Not satisfied with that he took a posse, so he said, and broke open a safe hoping to find evidence, and when his right to do so was questioned he, so the papers say, says that the gamblers are making war on him. Now, Mr. Editor, all this is wrong and unfair. The papers, or at least a few of them, have been insinuating that there is a gambling ring. I can't answer positively for all of them, but will say this, that I don't believe that any gambler in this city is giving or has given one dollar for protection, and so far as I know not one dollar has been paid from the highest to the lowest in authority. It has also been stated in some of the papers by parties being interviewed that I have given McChesney $2,500 to be paid for the appointment of one or two Police Commissioners. I pronounce that statement as absolutely false. I never gave McChesney any money to be given to anybody for any such purpose or to procure me any privileges in any way whatever, and have not given any one else any money to procure for me any favors. So you will see, if my statement is true (and 'tis true), that you have been imposed upon and caused to say many things that you would not have said had you have known the truth. "To my best recollection I have not did any unfair thing to any human being, and yet for some reason I have many enemies, and they have taken occasion to poison people against me that could work me an injury." There has many things happened during this police muddle that has been laid at my door that was not thought of by me, and surely would not have been approved of by me.

Respectfully, R. C. PATE.

WASHINGTON PARK MYSTERY.

The Suicide Probably Identified as a Texan Merchant.

The body of the Washington Park suicide still lies in the Morgue. Yesterday three photographs were taken of the remains and more were struck off to-day. This morning a man went into the Morgue and looked at the body. He told the superintendent that he recognized the features as those of a man named Phillip Malloy of Texas. He said that Malloy had been a merchant in Gainesville, Texas, and also had a store at Weatherford, in the same State. Worthingford said that Malloy had been in the habit of buying goods in St. Louis, and if it was the man he thought he was he had dealt with J. J. Beaky, the stove dealer, the Simmons Hardware Company and the Kennard Carpet Company for several years past. Con. Heidenreich, the driver of No. 14 engine, was also in the Morgue this morning, and he was sure the corpse had been in the engine-house a few days prior to his death. At that time he engaged in conversation with several of the boys around the house, and in the course of the talk he was asked where he was stopping. He replied that he had rented a room in the western part of the city, but did not give the number and street. It will be remembered that when the body was searched, three keys were found in one of the pockets. Evidently the key to a room, to a trunk and a valise. Worthingford said that Malley had held the reputation in Gainesville of being well fixed, and carried on a flourishing general merchandise business both in this place and Weatherford. He asked that photographs be sent to Edward Davis, of Gainesville, and to T. B. Edgar, of Weatherford. If the body now lying in the Morgue was that of Malloy, either of the men could identify it by a picture as they both had had business relations with him and intimate acquaintance. Coroner Frank will probably write to both addresses in Texas to-day, inclosing photographs. This is the eighth day the body has laid in the morgue, and if no positive evidence of the man's identity be had to-day or to-morrow the body will be stripped of its clothing and buried.

PRIZE-DRAWING COMPETITIONS

For Lady Amateurs!

Following the advice of several of our lady customers, we beg to announce a series of

PRIZE DRAWING COMPETITIONS

in connection with our business. The first competition will take place during the week ending May 6, when a first, second and third prize in jewelry, valued at $25, $15 and $10 respectively, will be given by us for the best drawing by a lady amateur for a containing diamonds of medium size, the number of diamonds not to be limited.

The following regulations will be observed on this occasion:

Rule 1. The competition is restricted to ladies unconnected with a jewelry house in any way.

Rule 2. Two drawings only, which may be in plain pencil or in water colors, may be sent by one lady.

Rule 3. Each competitor must give her full name and address, together with a nom de plume, her designs being signed by the nom de plume only.

Rule 4. The drawings must be sent to us on or before Monday, May 1, for proper classification.

Rule 5. The designs will be arranged so that they can be carefully inspected. A sealed box will be attached to each one, and every person entering the store will be presented with three checks, which they will drop in the boxes connected with the drawings they prefer. The drawings having the largest number of checks at the end of the week will receive the awards in their order.

The public are respectfully invited to assist us in carrying out this project. We feel sure that, in addition to the individual interest attached to the competition, an encouragement and stimulus will be given to the production of more artistic and original forms for jewelry than those at present in vogue.

Further particulars, and suitable drawing-cards, free of charge, may be obtained at our place of business.

Musical Union Matinee.

The dress rehearsal of the sixth orchestral concert of the St. Louis Musical Union occurred this morning at 10 o'clock in Mercantile Library Hall. Before the programme began every available seat in the large hall was occupied, and within half an hour thereafter not even standing room could be comfortably obtained. In point of attendance and performance the rehearsal was one of the most successful of the series, and the conductors received numerous congratulations. There were fifty musicians engaged in the orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. A. Waldauer, conductor, and Mr. A. Epstein, accompanist. The performance began with the overture from "Tannhauser," which was given with all the grand harmonies that characterize the work. Beethoven's "Sixth Smphony" followed, and its pastoral melodies found the amplest representation, the most commendable feature being the work of the flutists. The horn-blowers were rather infelicitous, but withal preserved the symphonic measures. A piano solo by Mr. William Sherwood, in which Theodore Kullak's barcarolle in G minor, the nocturne and the grand octave etude in E flat were given with special strength. Mr. Sherwood received the most enthusiastic plaudits. The orchestra next presented the ballet music of Rubinstein's "Feramors," including the "Dance of the Bayaderes," "Torchlight Dance of the Brides of Cashmere," and "Wedding March Procession." Part second of the programme included the overture of "Raymond," by Ambrose Thomas; a soprano solo, Donizetti's "La Zingara," by Mrs. Kate J. Broaddus, which was univerally commended; Scherz's "Musical Humoresque," and Kontzski's "Awakening of the Lion." The concert begins to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock promptly.

MISTAKEN IDENTITIES.

Points for Describing Men and Property for Identification.

Curious Cases That Have Come to the Knowledge of the Police.

Since the killing of Jesse James of St. Joe a few weeks ago his brother, Frank, has been seen at no less than eighty-three separate and distinct places, many of which are over a thousand miles distance from each other, and by persons who knew the outlaw for years and recognized him by some peculiar mark. The probability is that all these worthy citizens are not lying, but honestly wrong, and their stories instances of mistaken identity. This occurrence, which frequently plays an important part in obstructing the aims of police and the capture of criminals, has received great attention from the police in large cities and important detective agencies. Speaking of this, Chief Kennett said: It is a daily occurrence, frequently with laughable results and frequently attended with serious finales. With no knowledge of the original, but armed with a full description of face, form, dress and even a photograph, it is so very easy to mistake a man. With a description alone the chances are that a dozen mistakes will be made in making an arrest, if every circumstance is not looked to closely to guide the judgment. I will give you one of the usual descriptions that come to this office, and standing on the corner of, say, Fifth and Olive street, I will wager ten men answering it fully will pass in half an hour. It is on account of these vague particulars that the errors I speak of so frequently occur. The rule in nearly all cases that come to the department is that the description of the party wanted is either incorrect or incomplete. Perception is but poorly developed in most men, as can be positively proven by half an hour in this office during the day. It is remarkable that men and women who have been intimately associated for long periods of time have absolutely no idea of the details of each other's physiognomies. Men lack judgment in these things, and it is not unusual to find a man 5 feet 11 inches high described as 6 feet 1 or 2 inches, or a man 5 feet 9 inches as 5 feet 6 inches, while as to the color of the eyes or any distinctive mark men daily associated for years are unable to give it.

THIS DEFECT

is not so noticeable in women, who almost invariably give a truer description than a man of either persons or property. The idea to be kept in mind in giving a description of a person is to give some peculiarity which is not commonly found in faces or to define exactly the location of a mole, wart, scar or other mark giving its character. It is just as easy to do this as not, and most men have some such distinctive features about their faces as I mention. It is almost useless to give a man's walk or carriage, for instance, because you can find a hundred men in an hour who walk and carry themselves alike and have features and forms alike, dressing in the same style and behaving in about the same manner. A single peculiarity is worth a dozen ordinary points in a description. It is this great similarity between men and the nature of the description which are accountable for the many cases of mistaken identity discovered daily. A curious instance occurred at the Four Courts a few weeks ago, where a telegram was received asking the department to be on the look-out for "Tillie Kenton, aged 18, pretty, dark complexion, jet black eyes and wavy hair, quick and very lady-like in her movements; will probably be found around some of the cities. She is stage-struck, wears a fine drab color plushy ulsterette." A few days after the receipt of this a young lady answering in every particular was arrested on Olive street and taken to the Chief's office. In the meantime a postal and photograph had been received; to these also the young woman answered. When taken down to the hold-over she said, "I am a Venus. Let me show you my form divine. It would be worth millions on the stage." There was no doubt that his young lady was badly affected with a mania for the stage. The police were about telegraphing that Tillie Kemper was locked up in St. Louis when it was discovered that the young woman under arrest had a small but dark mole to one side of the nose which was not on the photograph. On telegraphing again it was learned that the girl wanted had such a mark, so that in every particular these two persons answered each other's descriptions. It was ascertained that the prisoner was an insane young woman who had escaped from the house at which she had been boarding, near the northeast corner of Nineteenth and Olive streets, but was not the Cincinnati girl who was wanted.

ONE OF THE MOST REMARKABLE CASES

of two persons resembling each other came to light before Judge Cady. A man named Mott, one of the slickest confidence men in the country, hovered about St. Louis for a long time. He was a tall, thin man, with a wan, worn face, straight, thin hair, and had a halt in his left leg. His manner of dress was as peculiar as himself. He always wore a white handkerchief about his throat, as if for some affection, a long-tailed, old-style cut coat, and carried a cotton umbrella packed up tightly under his left arm when walking. He was a sanctimonious scoundrel and many a time was found with eyes uplifted to heaven in some religious congregation while his fingers were delving down into some unsuspecting worshipper's pocket. In a row or at an arrest he would fight like a rat until the chances were against him, when he would yield like a lamb and be taken to the station without giving a particle of cause for a cuffing. One day he met a man who was his own likeness in every respect. The stranger had about the same ideas of dressing and self-adornment and carried just such another umbrella as Mott. The likeness was remarkable. Mott did not congratulate the stranger on this resemblance, but quietly followed him to the hotel and learned his name, room, and the fact that he had come from Louisville, Ky. At a big balloon ascension at Nineteenth and Exchange streets the day after, several confidence tricks were turned, and one of several hundred dollars. In the course of working this, the operator found a man from the hotel and was obliged to give him his card, on which was written the name copied from the register and the name of the room. It was a clear case. The description of all the victims tallied, and an officer was sent to the hotel. The occupant of the room entered late that night and was arrested after answering to his name, and about to be locked up, when several of the most prominent merchants in town, among others old man Barthold, were sent for and came to the station. The man gave bond and next day was arraigned for trial. He was positively identified by the victims and was on the point of conviction when the defense of an alibi struck him. He proved his whereabouts for every minute of the previous day by well-known citizens from whom he had made extensive tobacco purchases. Admitted that he had been in the balloon ascension, but not alone. It then dawned on one of the officers that the defendant might not be Mott, and he recollected that in a row some years before he had struck the confidence man with a club, causing a scalp scar. The officer examined the defendant, who was acquitted on his testimony. Mott was seen a short time after by Judge Cady while in the South and told how he had worked the tricks on the fact that he resembled the tobacco man.

Alpeora Bradley's New Move.

A. Alpeora Bradley, the colored ex-Senator from Georgia, has struck a new lead. In an important and official-looking communication the Senator to-day forwarded to the General Assembly a petition asking the honorable body to abolish the Bar Association and the Court of Appeals. He says that the Court of Appeals has grossly libeled him in an "extra judicial dubble-headed-star chamber opinion without Duprocess of Law." For the better protection of citizens and lawyers and to facilitate justice, he asks that the Bar Association and Court of Appeals be wiped out.

A divorce was afterwards obtained.

The Federal Court.

The following proceedings were had to-day in the United States Circuit Court: Wm. J. H. Bown et al vs. Kenton Insurance Company; verdict set aside; plaintiffs by leave take non-suit. A Book-Thief.

Charles Wilson was jailed by Officer Grady this morning, and is now at the Chestnut Street Station. Philip Roeder, proprietor of a book store, No. 322 Olive street, has been missing books for the last week, but had no positive proof of who the thief was. Wilson, a frequent visitor of the store, was suspected and Officer Grady kept a close watch on him, which resulted in his capture while stealing a book this morning. A charge of larceny will be preferred.

Mill Creek Sewer.

Work is still progressing at the mouth of the Mill Creek sewer. A force of men were at work all day under the direction of Sewer Commissioner Wise. The accident which occurred there late yesterday afternoon adds to the horrors of the disaster caused by the break. The bodies of Peter McNamara and Thomas King have not yet been recovered. The men were engaged in work at the sewer entrance late yesterday afternoon, when they were thrown from a flat-boat by a collision and the bodies swept away by the eddy. The work will scarcely be completed for several days.

THE ODD-FELLOWS.

Celebration of the Sixty-Third Anniversary of the Order.

To-day was the sixty-third anniversary of Odd-Fellowship in America, consequently it was made the occasion of a reunion of the various lodges of the order in Illinois and Missouri. Early this morning delegations arrived over the different railroads from various places, and, in several instances, the lodges were accompanied by their own brass bands. Medora, Centralia, Collinsville, East St. Louis, Highland, Belleville, Sandoval in Illinois, and other towns in Missouri were well represented. The different roads brought in between twenty-five and thirty car loads of visitors, and it is estimated that over five thousand people were in attendance at the exercises at the Fair Grounds this afternoon. Under the able chairmanship of P. G. M. Ira Stansbery, Sr., Master of Ceremonies, complete and ample preparations were made for the reception of guests and an enjoyable time was had by the fraternity. The exercises of the afternoon included a promenade concert by the Knight Templar Band, races by the Missouri Bicycle club and other features. At half past two o'clock an audience gathered in the hall and listened to an address by P. G. D. W. Sadler, who recounted the history of the organization from its birth, not only in this country but in Europe, where it originated. He gave a brief resume of the different benevolent features of the order and closed with a peroration on the general utility of Odd-Fellowship.

The address was followed by miscellaneous programme which included piano solos, recitations, etc.

How the Late Czar Was Killed.

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The recent trial of Russian Nihilists has developed new facts regarding the assassination of Alexander II. It seems the execution of the terrible plan was confided to three of the most trustworthy men in the Nihilist brotherhood. There was a wall facing the scene chosen for the attempt. In that wall three niches had been contrived for watchmen to shelter themselves when necessary. Each of the Nihilists occupied a niche. The first was ordered to allow the Emperor and his suit to pass. The second was to throw the first dynamite bomb as soon as the backs of the escort was turned. The third was ordered to do nothing unless his comrade should fail. The order was faithfully executed. As soon as the Emperor and his escort passed the second Nihilist threw his bomb, which exploded with terrific effect, killing horses and Cossacks and blowing the Emperor's carriage to pieces. But the Czar was unhurt. Then the first Nihilist, with his deadly missile concealed under his armpit, forced his way through the crowd and flung his bomb before the feet of the Czar, just as the latter had extricated himself from the wreck of the carriage. The act was both suicidal and murderous—a deed of assassination not without heroism, for the Nihilist himself was instantly killed, while the lower portion of the Emperor's body was actually blown off. Then the third Nihilist forced his was through the ring of horrified spectators, lifted the shattered body of the Czar and examined the victim. All this while he had his bomb ready for use, but seeing that the Emperor was already beyond hope, he placed the mutilated body in the hands of the Emperor's brother and the aides-de-camp and then, retiring into the crowd, disappeared. Subsequently betrayed by the woman, Helfman, he was arrested and tried on the 25th of February. The details of this trial are already known. But the terrible resolution of the murderer, as revealed by the trial, may well cause the third Alexander to fear the fate of his father ere long, for the Nihilists have officially announced that the coronation shall never take place.

Amateur Jameses.

From the Chicago Times.

Some "mute, inglorious" Jesse Jameses have been at work in the village of Somers, Westchester county, N. Y., where a bank is located. They were well armed, proceeded leisurely and gently to arouse and bind the people in the house adjoining the bank, were particularly deferential to two ladies, whose sweet slumbers they professed to be sorry to disturb and whose modesty suffered no grievous shock, blew open the safe door, and got nothing. The explosion was terrific, but Somers is a somnolent village and heard nothing. The failure of the expedition was signal, but the robbers, even under the pressure of disappointment, shed no blood. New York has now the melancholy reflection that she doesn't do these things near as well as Missouri.

MONEY.

Wall Street Gossip.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Stocks opened weak and from ⅛@1⅛ lower, the latter Erie preferred. In the early trade an advance of ⅛@⅝ was followed by a decline of ⅛@1, Lake Shore, Louisville and Nashville and New Jersey Central being prominent. At 11 o'clock a recovery of ⅛@⅞ had taken place. Foreign orders are about equally divided between purchases and sales. Any further advance in exchange will probably produce shipments of gold. Quite an amount of loan-bills coming due Saturday are likely to be renewed.

The Markets.

FORENOON SESSION.

Flour was dull but prices held about steady. Wheat showed a weak front most the time, though the feeling was still unsettled and prices irregular in futures, which closed at declines of 1⅛c for May, ⅜c for June and year, ⅝c for July, and ⅜c for August. Cash grades, even at lower prices, were slow sale, as there was little demand from any source. Corn futures declined on unfavorable advices, and closed 1⅛c lower for May, June and August, 1 3 16c for July, 1⅛c for September, and ½c for year. No. 2 mixed was well sustained and lower grades were better, but No. 2 white mixed was lower and weak. Oats were firm for cash, and futures relatively well sustained, but quiet. Rye and barley were dull and unchanged. Provisions became easier again on depressing advices, and the market was a dull one besides, as operators were apart in their views. Hay was steady and sold readily. Millfeed weak and lower. Highwines steady, 121 brls selling at $1 18. Cincinnati and Peoria $1 17; Chicago $1 19. Lead was very dull, but not to be bought under 4.70 for refined or 4.65 for common, and sales when made are at these prices. Spelter rules dull at 5½.

Sales Thursday, Friday and yesterday: 49 hhds, 5 boxes and 2 brls. To-day only 18 hhds (old and new crop) on breaks. GLADSTONE'S STATEMENT.

Remarkable Speech From the Premier in the House of Commons.

LONDON, April 26.—In the House of Commons to-day great amazement was created by a formal statement on Irish affairs made by Mr. Gladstone. He announced that he would soon introduce a bill respecting the arrears of rent in Ireland, making them a gift, and not a loan to the tenant. He said this was necessary. The Government must do it. The Government must also, the Premier said, make compensation to the landlords for the losses ensuing to them from this policy from the church fund. In a vein of discouragement Gladstone closed his statement with an appeal to the opposition to support the government plans which, he said, to be successful, must be the result of impartial action. He said he most earnestly hoped that the present small glow of hope for the restoration of peace and prosperity in Ireland would increase and he was sure it would if the opposition would now meet him half way in the sincere effort he proposed.

The Malley Trial.

NEW HAVEN, April 26.—The Malley trial was resumed. The testimony thus far is unimportant.

THE LADIES STAYED.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, April 26.—Attorney Jones, of defendants' counsel, before proceeding with the cross-examination of witness regarding the condition of Jennie Cramer's body when found, asked the court to request the numerous ladies present to withdraw, as both questions and answers would be unfit for their ears. The court said it was optional with the ladies to withdraw or stay.

TWELVE WENT OUT.

The others remained, stretching their necks to hear every word of the most particularized medical testimony regarding the proof that Jennie Cramer had been led astray a few hours before her death. Dr. Painter testified to the examination of the body made by himself and Dr. Shephard, for the purpose of ascertaining if the girl had been the victim of James Malley. At noon the case was adjourned until 2 p. m.

Railroad Accident.

CINCINNATI, April 26.—The Times-Star Lexington special says the north-bound passenger express train on the Cincinnati Southern, going fifteen miles per hour, ran into a misplaced switch early this morning. Engineer Dan. Driscoll was killed. The train was full of passengers. The cars were all off the track. No passengers were hurt, but the fireman was slightly scalded.

Flour Men and Base Ball.

An interesting game of base ball will be played to-morrow afternoon at the Grand Avenue Park between nines picked from the "flour corner" on 'Change. One of the nines will champion the improved "roller system," and will be captained by Charley Chenolt, the other nine, led by Dave Kirk, representing the "old system." The players are selected from among the flour men, and as one man knows just as little about base ball as another, it is expected the game will be more enjoyable than scientific. It is hinted that the "old system" nine have secured John Engelke as back stop, and if this is so, they hold a decided advantage over the other nine. Herdics will be in front of the Exchange at 2 p. m. to-morrow to convey the players, their friends and a keg of beer to the grounds. Play begins at 4.

A Slight Explosion.

At 1:15 this afternoon some iron in a blast furnace at Shickle, Harrison & Co.'s foundry, corner of Twelfth and Papin streets, dropped into a pool of cold water, causing a loud explosion. Some of the fragments of the hot iron fell in the engine-room, setting fire to the grease about the flywheel, which was in motion, carrying the flame to the top of the room. An alarm was turned on from box No. 84, but the flames were extinguished before the arrival of the engines. The damage will not exceed $50.

The Kountz Libel Case.

To-day the evidence in the case of Com. William J. Kountz, the well known boat owner, was heard in the Criminal Court. A serious variance was discovered between the allegations of the complainant and the proof. The suit grew out of an article published in the Pittsburg Mail to the effect that Capt. John W. Carroll while Harbor Master was a defaulter. The "copy" was produced. When the State rested its case, the defense announced themseves ready for argument. The case was accordingly laid over until May 3, when some points involved will be argued.

JUDGE GRASSER.

He Dies From the Result of Injuries Inflicted by a Street Car.

Judge George M. Grasser, of Newark, O., who was run over by a street car of the green line at Fourth and Walnut streets last Monday night and received a compound fracture of the thigh, died this morning at 5 o'clock in room 36 of the Southern Hotel. He was attended during his last hours by Trusten P. Dyer, Mr. Aldridge and a number of prominent Masons, who acted at the instigation of Newark Commandery, No. 34. The gentleman died peacefully and with scarcely a struggle. Mrs. Grasser and her son, G. Douglass Grasser, arrived in the city at 7 o'clock this morning, and the wife is completely prostated by her husband's death. She had expected to find him suffering from the injuries, and had anticipated the loving words and consolation she could administer, but to look suddenly upon her husband's lifeless body was a dreadful shock. Rev. Dr. Ganse, of the First Presbyterian Church, was sent for to speak the comforting promises of religion.

Judge Grasser was born at Landau, Germany, in 1832, and came to this country while yet a small boy. He settled in Newark, O., and after some years of study began the practice of law, finally securing the office of Justice of the Peace. When that term ceased he was made Deputy Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas, and afterwards elected Mayor of the city. At the conclusion of his tenure of the Mayoralty he was elected Judge of the Probate Court, which position he held continuously for twelve years, retiring on the 4th day of February last. During all his later life he was President of the Board of Education of Newark, and was considered a progressive, public-spirited citizen. After his retirement from office Judge Glasser began to feel the effects of a cutaneous disease in the shape of salt rheum, which had disturbed him since childhood, and on the recommendation of his physician he started for Hot Springs, and had reached this city when the accident occurred that resulted in his death. The body was removed this morning to Smithers & Waggoner's undertaking establishment and the Coroner notified. The family will start for Newark to-night with the remains.

YESTERDAY afternoon while the seven-year old son of George Barback was trying to climb into a stone wagon belonging to John Rudimeyer, on Thirteenth street, between Newhouse and Bremen avenues, he got his left foot in a wheel and had all of the toes badly smashed. He was taken to his house, No. 3024 North Thirteenth street, and attended.

Complaints having become numerous from property-holders and residents on Seventh and Eighth streets, between Franklin avenue and Biddle streets, regarding the conditions of the negro and white hovels in the vicinity, a POST-DISPATCH reporter last night visited the locality, with the view of ascertaining the grounds upon which the grievances were based. The large tenement structure in the rear of 714 Seventh street, known as the Franklin building, was first inspected, the entrance, and the only one, being effected through "Clabber alley." The sounds of the reporter's footsteps attracted the attention of the inmates, and like a pack of coyotes, when surprised by a stranger's approach, they protruded their heads from every available aperture. The first floor, composed of about ten rooms was occupied entirely by the negro element of the most depraved order. Numerous questions were applied to them without eliciting a civil reply.

ONE OLD WOMAN

when asked her name refused to give it by the advice of the balance, they believing that the visitor was an officer in disguise. Each room was occupied, not by a single person, or man and wife, but an entire family, men, women and children sleeping in the same bed, or, more properly speaking, on mildewed and rotten mattresses and old bedclothes strewed upon the floor. The second flight, which was reached by a rickety stairway, was occupied by a mixed negro and Italian element. The reporter happened in just at the time of the regular evening row. The Italian women were drunk and fighting between themselves, the negro women and men yelling and screaming in approbation, while the little children were running backward and forward crying and frightened. Upon the third stoop, known in Clabber alley parlance as Castle Thunder, a repelling sight was presented, that in abject horror was never in the slightest degree approached. In a large room, or at least two which had been formed into one by destroying the intervening partition, upon a filth-begrimed floor,

RECLINED IN BEASTLY DRUNKENNESS

several negro men and women and three white women, the latter in a half-nude condition, and the vessels from which their libations had been imbibed consisting of battered oyster cans which had been picked up probably upon the streets. Their intoxicant consisted of stale beer which had been "canned" from beer kegs standing on the outside of saloons after having been used. The unexpected intrusion upon their orgies aroused the human monsters and attracted their attention for a moment. One of the white women, whose face was partially destroyed by a disease, and otherwise presented a bloated and disgusting sight, with the utmost sang froid requested a "chaw of terbacco." The reporter upon informing the woman that he had none was the recipient of a vile epithet and told that he ought to have it. Stretched in one corner of the room, upon a bed of straw saturated with filth, lay a white child whom the abovementioned woman claimed as her own. Emaciated with disease and probably hunger, falling, however, to reach the stony heart of its mother, in whom even the voice of nature was dead. The vile creature was asked her name, and replied with an imbecile grin that a good many years ago it had been Nellie May, but now was simply "Limping Lizzie." This apparently humorous reply evoked a general laugh from the balance and the reporter withdrew. Probably some fiction writer can, in this woman, find a remarkable character without resorting in the least to his imagination. A descent was then made into the adjoining yard, connecting by means of dark, narrow passages with the alley. Here the mud and filth was from six inches to two feet in depth, in which hogs were wallowing, chickens struggling, and children filthily clothed paddling about. Within five feet of this garbage and filth were the sleeping rooms of the denizens upon the first floor.

THE LITTLE THING MOANED FEEBLY, ITS PITIFUL WAILS

The building next to the Franklin, and adjoining Monahan's stable at the rear, was next given a superficial examination, the inmates with one accord barring their doors against the intruder. This structure has been given the happy appellation of "The Robbers' Retreat." Were that have been enacted here unfolded, the building would not require condemnation by the authorities. Directly across the alley from this structure stands a one-story, time-battered tenement, in which last night a lively fight was progressing between a drunken white woman named "Blinky Mag" and a negro girl called "Tough Annie," of about eighteen years, over the possession of a drunken white man who had been "steered" into the alley for the purpose of robbery. The field was left open for the combatants, no officer appearing. Strange as it may seem, no attention whatever was paid to the encounter by the other residents, it being too commonplace an affair. Across Carr street, in the same alley, a similar scene presented itself. The air was filled with the frenzied execration of drunken negro men, the women were brawling, and the children crying. On the corner of Clabber alley and Carr street, where stands a low dive of a saloon, were standing on the sidewalk, totally obstructing it, cursing and swearing, while the bar-keepers seemed to relish their language.

THIRTY OR FORTY NEGRO ROUSTABOUTS

Mr. Monahan, whose livery stable is on Seventh, between Franklin avenue and Carr, told the reporter that these crowds of lawless and brutal negroes terrorized the entire neighborhood. Women and young girls were afraid even in the day time to pass along Carr street between Sixth and Seventh. The better class of people had thus been forced to leave the locality, whose apartments were retaken by the lower element. Every night, he said, as the hours waxed later, the demoniacal yells of the Clabber alley denizens grew louder and louder, banishing all hope of sleep from the person in hearing distance. Property, he said, had depreciated to such an extent as to be almost worthless, which was attributable to these causes only. Mr. Monahan was asked what course he thought should be adopted by which the trouble could be abated. In reply, he stated that after having given the matter a vast amount of consideration he believed that the remedy lay within the jurisdiction of the Health Department. While it was next to impossible to secure the condemnation of a building where the walls were intact, they certainly could be removed, or at least placed in sanitary condition, as a measure of public safety and necessity. Even so early in the season as this, Mr. Monahan continued, the fatal gases that emanated from the foul garbage and excrement on the surface of the ground disseminated itself for blocks and blocks, requiring people to sleep with the windows of their houses closed in order to avoid as much as possible the death-dealing odors. It was a well known medical fact, he said, that ordinary malarial fever could be intensified, by the aggregation of numerous cases in such a pestilential locality, into contagious diseases of an epidemic nature. Mr. Monahan was asked if the police never took any action in the case.

The question evoked a smile from the gentleman, he stating that they claimed they were restricted and unable to do anything.

THE "RIVER RATS' ROOST,"

a resort for roustabouts, in "Wildcat Chute," the alley between Seventh and Eighth, and Franklin ave. and Wash, was next the objective point. In one of the rooms of this dive were found huddled together a repulsive-looking Italian woman, nicknamed "The Queen," a negro girl, and a raft of children, black, yellow and white, some of whom were sick. Negro men and women were carousing in the next room, enlivening the affair occasionally with a fight. In this same locality also is situated "The Lovers' Retreat." Similar scenes as related above were witnessed here. On the southeast corner of Eighth and Biddle, over the grocery store, is located "Fort Pillow" and "Paradise." In the attic of this building negro families were huddled together like so many cattle in a pen. The walls were begrimed with disgusting filth and dirt, and the yard in the most terrible condition imaginable. Here also with the introductory orgies of the negroes, that die away as the dawn appears. The patient and long suffering people in the neighborhood above mentioned are now being moved by an indignation that is eminently just. But withal their remonstrances are fraught with no benefit, as they pass unheeded and unacted upon by the authorities. Right in this connection it might be pertinent to ask, Where is the Board of Health? It is asserted unanimously by the neighboring people that not the slightest endeavor is made by the Board of Health to force the negroes into compliance with the sanitary laws. The knowledge that the labyrinthian and almost impenetrable retreats of "Clabber Alley," "Lovers' Retreat," "Fort Pillow," etc., afford a hiding place for the wrong-doer from which it is almost an impossibility to extricate him has inspired negroes, men and women, to the committal of crimes that otherwise would have never been attempted. In these slums the midnight burglar, the prowling chicken thief, the thug, and men of this class, find protection almost invulnerable, where the argus eye of the law seldom penetrates. A removal of the buildings would do away with a vast amount of crime, from murder to petty theft.

THE NIGHT IS USHERED IN

Bronchitis.—Throat Diseases often commence with a Cough, Cold, or unusual exertion of the voice. These incipient symptoms are allayed by the use of "Brown's Bronchial Troches," which if neglected often result in a chronic trouble of the throat.

THE DIXON SCANDAL.

The Runaway Couple In Louisville—Return of the Husband.

Mrs. Dixon, the runaway wife, and her partner, John G. Curtis, have been tracked to Chicago. A dispatch from that city states that the pair were at the Tremont House yesterday, registered as "Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Curtis, St. Louis."

The woman was called upon by a reporter and the telegram states that she told him that she had left her husband on account of his cruelty towards her. She further claimed that Dixon was twenty-five years her senior and that, therefore, there could be no bond of sympathy between them. Young Curtis also made his statement, in which he contradicts all that his father says about him. John alleges that he will be 21 years of age in September and that at that time he will come into possession of considerable property, which will enable him to be his own master. His intentions are to marry Mrs. Dixon just as soon as her husband secures a divorce from her. The scapegrace was cool enough to admit frankly that he thought the wronged husband had sufficient grounds for instituting such proceedings. The parties interested in this city have made no attempt to intercept the couple, and they left Chicago last night, giving out that they were bound for Louisville, Ky.

Mr. Barnett Dixon, the husband, arrived at the Union Depot last night, where he was met by his brother-in-law, John A. Ladd. Mr. Dixon had only heard an intimation of what had happened, and it was only after his arrival here that he heard the details of the shameless transaction. He was almost prostrate with grief, but said nothing. He visited his children, and spent last night at the house considering a plan of action. This morning he removed the children to his mother's house, in the neighborhood.

The colored servants, Annie Forman and Sallie, were discharged this morning, and left the house together at 11 o'clock. They were much to blame, inasmuch as they might have prevented the elopement by sending word either to Mrs. Ladd, Mrs. Dixon's mother, or to Mr. Curtis, the Lothario's father, both of whom live in the immediate neighborhood. When asked why they had not done this, they giggled and said that they did not think it was any of their business. Mr. Dixon will close up his residence at 315 Channing avenue, his children remaining for the present at the home of his mother-in-law. As to his future action, he will say nothing. It is stated, however, that he will make no attempt to pursue the runaways, and that he will let his wife follow the course she has chosen. He will be in the city several days, and his friends say that proceedings for divorce are now being prepared.

In reference to the wife's statement about cruel treatment, her own relatives deny this, and state that Mr. Dixon had always been most kind and affectionate in every way. He is not as old as she alleges, being about 40 years of age.

INTERESTING to every one is the case lately referred to by the Brooklyn Eagle. It was told by Mr. W. A. Davenport, connected with the house of Messrs. Butler, Pitkin & Co., 476 Broadway, New York, and concerned the marvelous cure of Mr. Ezra D. Clarkson, near Newark, N. J., of a terrible case of rheumatism, which other remedies had failed even to alleviate. He was on his way to a hospital when Mr. Davenport met him and induced him to try St. Jacobs Oil, with the result named.

"A NEW FACT."

The Attorney-General Says He Learned it on the 24th Inst.

The Circuit Attorney Says He Informed Mr. McIntyre of the Same on the 21st Inst.

Eager were the lottery men and anxious to have a jury pass upon Circuit Attorney Harris' action in breaking open their safe, and in the eagerness of their anxiety the matter was yesterday laid over by them in the Court of Criminal Correction until next Saturday. The alleged reason was that Col. Slayback, Lehndorf's attorney, was engaged in the Circuit Court. In the meantime the action of Attorney-General McIntyre in approving the information, after the prosecuting officer and his assistant had refused to do so, is receiving severe criticism. On last Monday, the 24th, the Attorney-General, in explaining his position to a reporter, said: "I signed this information because I thought it was my painful duty, though I disliked to do so very much. In view of the affidavits presented to me in this case I thought it was one that demanded investigation, and I was informed that unless I filed this information it would not be filed. In fact I heard this morning a new fact in the case, that a policeman had seen the men throwing lottery tickets or checks into the safe and locking it when the arrest was made, but with the affidavits before me I had no option—no election." Serious exception to the truth of these statements credited to the Attorney-General is taken in the office of the Circuit Attorney. Some new facts that place Mr. McIntyre in a very peculiar position have been discovered. On the 20th inst. the Attorney-General telegraphed Circuit Attorney Harris: "I have been asked to approve an information against you for breaking open a safe. What are the particulars?" This was received in St. Louis at 4 p. m., April 20th. Marshall F. McDonald, Mr. Harris' clerk, under instructions, wrote a letter covering three pages—an official communication made under oath of office, giving the details. In this Mr. Harris said he had been informed of what the contents of the safe probably were. The fact further came out in testimony given before the grand jury that the papers, books and checks were conclusive evidence of the fact that the owners had been engaged in the continual commission of a felony. On the 15th inst. the headquarters of the lottery were raided by police. As the officers entered the man in charge threw several bundles and papers into the safe and quickly turned the combination, refusing to open it when requested to do so. The place was under charge of the police. Mr. Lehndorf put in an appearance, and was repeatedly asked to open the safe, but refused to do so under orders from the Circuit Attorney. A locksmith broke open the depository, and, the letter states, "the character of the contents for proving the guilt exceeded our anticipations." A full list of the papers and books and their character were given in the letter, which went out in the same evening's mail, reaching Jefferson City shortly after midnight, and was distributed in the mail of the morning of the 21st. The information was signed a few minutes before noon on the 22d, enabling the special messenger of the lottery men to take the afternoon train, arriving in St. Louis that evening. If the mails carried as usual this letter of the Circuit Attorney was in the Attorney-General's hands thirty-six hours before the information was signed. So that the new fact to which Mr. McIntyre attaches so much importance should have come to his notice on the 22d instead of the 24th, as he explains. The information, which, by the way, spells Daniel "Dannial," is still in possession of the clerk, though not filed.

LAMENTED LOVE.

A Shattered Mind Caused by Early Disappointment—Painful Inquiry.

Juries are summoned to-day in the Probate Court to pass upon the mental condition of two unfortunate men. In the one case the petitioner moving the court for an inquiry is Louis L. Allen, President of the Lawrence County Bank, Pierce City, Mo. He alleges that his brother Joseph W. Allen has been an inmate of St. Vincent's Asylum in this city for twenty-one years past. During that time he has been supported by the benefits received from membership in two lodges of Odd Fellows. This fund was collected from time to time by Elisha Allen, a brother now deceased, and upon an accounting with the asylum it appeared that the deceased brother collected $500 more than was paid out for the care of the insane patient. No guardian had ever been appointed, neither had any verdict of a jury ever been rendered declaring Joseph W. Allen insane, but it becomes necessary now to have a guardian appointed in order that the sum of money due from the deceased brother's estate may be recovered. The patient at St. Vincent's is well advanced in years. Early in life he was the victim of disappointed love and it preyed upon his mind to such an extent that he ultimately became insane and incapable of managing his affairs. His brother's attorney, Mr. Lubke, paid a visit to the asylum a few days since to confer with him, and for a time his conversation was somewhat rational, but he insisted that he had only been restrained of his liberty for seven years in lieu of twenty-one, and said that shortly he proposed to come out and settle down in the woods of Asia.

The other inquiry is touching the mental condition of Johann Filbich, who is entitled to some property, but the petitioner, H. H. Burrichter, alleges that he is not of sound mind and therefore not capable of managing his estate. The appointment of a guardian is prayed for.

ALWAYS KEEP COOL.

To stick to your subject and the truth is an excellent plan, and whether it is in questions of finance or fishing, when it comes to fishing, that is permitted in no other subject, and no doubt our friends in the pictures are indulging in that special employment, as we hope, as in a little scientific swearing. Their bodies and tempers are hot and the air is cool as they should be, but are not, and they are apparently in the condition when it is much easier to catch rheumatism than fish, in which case it would be well for them that they be provided with a bottle of ST. JACOBS OIL, the Great German Remedy for this as well as other painful ailments.

WE'LL NAIL ITS COLORS TO THE MAST.

"Hello, Denny! what is the trouble?" "Oh, I'm all broke up," was the response to the inquiry of an old shipmate of William G. Dennison, one of Farragut's war-worn veterans, well known in the southern section of this city, who came limping into the American office yesterday. "I thought I would go under the hatches this time," continued Dennison. "I never suffered so much in my life. I had the rheumatic gout so bad that I could not get off the bed or put my foot to the floor, and would have been there yet if a friend had not recommended St. Jacobs Oil to me. I hesitated some time before getting a bottle, thinking it was another one of those advertised nostrums, but was finally induced to give it a trial, and a lucky day it was for me. Why, bless my stars! after bathing the limb thoroughly with the Oil I felt relief, and my faith was pinned to St. Jacob and his Oil after that. I freely say that if it had not been for St. Jacobs Oil, I should, in all probability, be still housed. My foot pains me but little, and the swelling has entirely passed away. It beats anything of the kind I have ever heard of, and any person who doubts it send them to me at 1934 South Tenth st.—Philadelphia Times.
